HARDING WOOS TENNESSEE DEMS.

League Issue May Cause That State to Change Politics First Time Since Civil War—Senator Stays at Chattanooga.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Enroute With Senator Harding, Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 13.—Senator Warren G. Harding carried the gospel of Republicanism and opposition to the Paris league of nations into "enemy" territory today.

Confident that this year will see the fulfillment of that long cherished Republican dream—the breaking of the solid south—Senator Harding invaded Tennessee for a single speech. This will be delivered tonight at the Tabernacle here and indications are that it will be crowded to its capacity of 8,000 seats.

Not since the days of reconstruction has Tennessee given its electoral vote to the Republican candidate for president, but this year the G. O. P. chieftains figure the state to be the weak link in the Democratic southern chain. They are banking heavily on anti-league sentiment in the state, as indicated by the fact that one of the Democratic senators from Tennessee, John K. Shields, was an outspoken critic of the Wilson program during the long treaty fight in the senate.

Senator Harding's special train arrived at Chattanooga at 8:15 o'clock this morning. A reception committee headed by Henry Clay Evans, former consul general to London, met the Harding party at 9 a. m. and from the train a sightseeing trip by motor was begun which was to occupy most of the day.

The battlefields and historical points about Chattanooga were to be visited with a luncheon for the candidate atop Lookout Mountain.

An hour's public reception at the Patten Hotel will be held late this afternoon at which Senator Harding will receive and shake hands with hundreds of Tennessee Republicans.

After the speech tonight Senator Harding will return to his train to spend the night. The train will lay over in the yards all night and pull out early tomorrow to travel leisurely northward through Kentucky with many rear end speeches at points along the route. A night speech will be made at Louisville.

Senator Harding's itinerary for this five day invasion of the border states has been revamped several times, so that in addition to the four big set speeches originally provided for, at Chattanooga, Louisville, Indianapolis and St. Louis, he will make at least two dozen short talks from the rear platform in cities in Kentucky, Indiana, Missouri, Illinois and Ohio, before getting back to Marion next Sunday.

Whether an eastern trip will be made in the next three weeks was still undecided today so far as Senator Harding himself knew. The impression exists aboard the Harding train, however, that at the conclusion of this trip the senator will confine himself to his own front porch and several Ohio dates for the duration of the campaign.

TO ABANDON COUGHLIN SEARCH

"The Crank" Identifies Weight and String Brought Up By Diver But Baby's Body Believed to Have Entirely Decomposed — Pasquale Owns to Other Crimes—Can't be Tried for Murder.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Norristown, Pa., Oct. 13.—George H. Coughlin, father of murdered Blakely Coughlin, after a search lasting until late last night, announced that the hunt for his baby son's body would probably be abandoned, as the family and police are satisfied that the little corpse thrown into the Schuylkill river by Augusto Pasquale, "the crank," had decomposed and been washed away forever.

Through his attorney, C. T. Larzelere, Mr. Coughlin said that physicians at the University of Pennsylvania had agreed that a body which had been in the water for more than four months could not be found, because of the quick decomposition due to action of acids coming from the mills in the vicinity of the spot where little Blakely was thrown into the stream.

All of yesterday was spent in searching the river bottom at Ernest Station, more than a mile from the Curren Trace home of the Coughlins.

The diver sprawled on his hands and knees over the bottom of the stream and found only a section of the iron rail and a string, which Pasquale, sitting calmly on the bank of the river, identified as the weight used to hold the child's body under the water.

Pasquale's confession to the state police unfolded a long string of crimes. He told how he had arrived in Norristown a week before the kidnapping for the purpose of robbing telephone pay stations. On his way back to Philadelphia he passed the Coughlin summer home just as the family were returning from Norristown. He saw the baby being tucked into bed by Mrs. Coughlin and he carefully laid his plans for the kidnapping at a later date.

Previous to his visits here, "the crank" confessed he murdered an old woman in Philadelphia and also confessed to a long string of other crimes.

Pasquale says the realization of the child's death was a shock to him. He told the police that he sat for hours on the bank of the Schuylkill with the dead child in his arms, trying to decide the safest way to dispose of the body. Shortly before daylight on June 2 he searched the stone quarries at Ernest and found the iron rail, to which he tied the little corpse. Then he tossed it with all his strength into the deepest part of the river.

Pasquale's wonderful nerve was displayed by the fact that he then came back to Norristown and spent the entire day in the town that was seething with excitement following the kidnapping. He wrote the first blackmail letter at 11 a. m. and as he ate his meals read the Norristown papers which told of the crime.

Pasquale will be placed on trial for kidnapping at the November session of court. He cannot be tried for murder because the body has not been found.

C. E. UNION RALLY FRIDAY

The annual fall rally of the Kingston Local Union of Christian Endeavor will be held Friday evening in the First Reformed Church, and President W. W. Brady has sent personal invitations to all of the societies represented in the union to be represented. There will be the election of officers for the coming year and the annual reports will be read showing the work accomplished since the last rally. The attendance banner for the society having the largest delegation present will also be awarded at that time. An interesting program has been arranged for the occasion, and it is expected that there will be record breaking attendance. Every one interested in young people's work, whether a member of the union or not, is cordially invited to attend.

Less Wool Manufactured.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 13.—A total of 28,000,000 pounds of wool, grease equivalent, was used in the manufacturing plants in the United States during August. This is an increase of about 1,000,000 pounds over the preceding month, but is 18,000,000 pounds less than the amount used in August, 1919, according to reports released today by the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture.

Keeney Auto Found.

The automobile of Willis H. Keeney of No. 274 Clinton avenue which was stolen from in front of the Stuyvesant Hotel Monday evening, was found abandoned late Tuesday afternoon on the Stephan street hill, near Clifton avenue. The auto had not been damaged and undoubtedly was stolen by some youthful thieves for a joy ride.

JAPS BUYING WAR MATERIAL

They Alone of Great Powers Are Building Up Great Fighting Machine and Immigration Dispute is Only Motive Apparent.

(By Earl C. Reeves.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Oct. 13.—Japan alone of all the great countries of the world is now a heavy buyer of munitions and other war supplies. This revelation was made to the International News Service today from reliable sources.

Japan's procedure is said to involve secret contracts and widespread inquiries for war materials by Japanese secret agents. Japanese agents are reported to be fully as active as they were in the days just preceding the Russo-Japanese war.

The activities of Japan are the subject of much speculation in a small circle where the facts are known, since Japan is faced with no danger on her own hemisphere greater than prostrate China. The Japanese dispute with America over immigration is the only visible reason for speeding up the Japanese war machine.

According to information secured here, Japanese agents are making every effort to obtain guns, big and little, and ammunition.

The Japanese are apparently eager to secure a single gun of each of the most effective type of heavy artillery used in the world war. These are shipped homeward for models so that similar guns can be produced in the Japanese armament works.

Japan is not equipped for the reproduction of airplanes but has placed large orders for aircraft with several firms in England and smaller orders for seaplanes. The volume of these orders is sufficient to keep several plants operating which otherwise would have been compelled to close down for lack of business.

It is learned that where a decade ago Japan placed her navy orders in England, her more recent policy has been to order a single ship with all the latest fighting appliances which could be used as a model in the great Japanese ship yards at Kobe and elsewhere.

The extent of Japan's naval growth from this source is unknown; nor is it known exactly what the Japanese agents on the continent have achieved, though it is learned that they are active in France and are said even to be seeking the latest war inventions of Germany. It is difficult to understand how German materials could be removed without conflicting with the peace treaty, even if Japan should buy them, but it is possible that the Japanese are getting only models.

It is pointed out in this connection that Admiral Togo relined his 12-inch guns just before the battle of Tsushima with material from boxes labeled "agricultural machinery" and "pianos," which had been shipped from England on board British ships.

Japan's wartime shipbuilding campaign has resulted in the construction of many big liners, which are now plying between Japanese ports and European ports to facilitate the shipment of all kinds of supplies into Japan direct without touching intermediate ports.

REPORTS FROM IRISH FRONT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dublin, Oct. 13.—Many persons were injured in a night of wild rioting in Dublin. Soldiers and civilians clashed at a number of points. Finally the soldiers were ordered to their barracks. The barracks were attacked with stones and windows were broken. The troops emerged and were stoned. A pitched battle developed around the barracks which lasted until armored cars separated the combatants.

Cork, Oct. 1.—A violent battle which lasted an hour took place at Dunmanway today when 50 Sinn Feiners attacked the constabulary barracks with rifles and bombs. The barracks were defended by 65 "black and tan" policemen who repulsed the attack.

ROOP DESCRIBES CHILDREN'S DEATH

Three-Year-Old Daughter Recovered From Chloroform and Walked to Grave in Slime and Muck Where he Held Heads of Both Under—Mother, With Six-Day Old Child, is Ignorant of Tragedy.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 13.—Earl Roop, Okemos farmer, who confessed yesterday that he had taken his two little daughters, Dorothy and Bernice, aged 3 and 2 years, respectively, and buried them alive in the mud and slime of Red Cedar river, will be given a preliminary hearing Friday morning on a charge of first degree murder. He stood mute when arraigned and a plea of not guilty was entered by the court. The coroner decided no inquest is necessary.

In the meantime, Roop, his clothes bedraggled and spattered with the mud from his children's grave, sits in jail here, apparently unconcerned and unrepentant.

"It was going to be a hard winter and the girls were an expense," is his justification. He insists that both children are happier.

At the Roop farm the wife and mother does not know yet that her husband has killed their two daughters. She is making a mother's brave fight to keep alive a tiny son, born six days ago. The last time she saw the children was when Roop took them away from her bedside Monday afternoon "so they would not bother her."

From the bedroom, Roop, according to the confession, led his two little girls through a field to a slimy bayou of the Red Cedar river.

"I chloroformed them," he said, "with a bag I got in Okemos. Then I got busy digging a hole in the old river bed. By that time the fresh country air had partially restored consciousnes to them and the older girl walked to the hole while I carried the younger. I put them both in the hole and held their heads under water so they would not suffer. Then the muck and slime began to ooze in and soon they were both buried."

Fear that he would be unable to provide for his family is the only reason Roop has given for his act

"I depended on my potatoes and oats chiefly this year," he said, "but both failed. From ten acres of oats the best I could get was 45 bushels and the potatoes were no good."

Crowds flocked to the "murder farm" today but sympathy for the suffering mother restrained their curiosity to some extent.

COHEN-ARNSTEIN WARRANTS OUT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Bench warrants have been issued here for the arrest of Jules W. ("Nicky") Arnstein, alleged "master mind" in the five million dollar bond robberies in New York last fall, and also for Isidore Cohen, believed to be in Cleveland, and Randolph S. Newman, of New York. The warrants will be served today or tomorrow.

Arnstein and several others were indicted here, after testimony was offered alleging disposition of stolen bonds in this city.

SMITH ARRESTED

Charged With Carney's Murder in Montreal.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 13.—While a squad of special policemen with drawn revolvers stood guard about the home of Nicholas E. Smith today, two other officers arrested at the points of pistols Nicholas E. Smith, Jr., charged with attempt to murder J. J. Carney, of Lawrence, in Montreal. The prisoner who had been asleep on a couch in his father's home was attempting to escape when the policemen appeared.

Smith admitted that he knew Carney but denied being implicated in the shooting of the Lawrence man, who was said to have been fatally wounded.

GOT 'EM LICKED, SAYS TAGGART

To Cox As Latter Leaves For Another Tour In Indiana Where Organization Is Said To Be In Perfect Order—Cleveland Victory Makes Hit With Candidate.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

En Route With Governor Cox, Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 13.—"We've got them licked," Senator Tom Taggart told Governor James M. Cox today as they left here for another day's strenuous campaign in central and northern Indiana. Both Cox and Taggart are enthusiastic over the reception accorded Governor Cox.

All Democratic state leaders agree that the party's organization in this state is in the best condition in many years.

The governor's program today includes speeches at Delphi, Logansport, Peru, Wabash and Fort Wayne, with many rear platform speeches at intermediate points.

A committee of Indiana women has urged the governor that some sort of a symbol be adopted to indicate support of the league of nations. They assert that the women of Indiana are for the league, not from partisan, but from religious, motives and they argue that many women ordinarily of Republican persuasion would be glad to display in their windows some kind of non-partisan placard announcing their allegiance to the league. Governor Cox has taken the suggestion under advisement.

Governor Cox is determined to continue his attack upon Senator Harding for alleged vacillation with respect to the league of nations.

"Harding's declaration at Des Moines," the governor said, "cost him thousands of votes and his managers were quick to recognize the fact. That explains his sudden change of front."

From now on until election Governor Cox will continue his contention that Senator Harding has no fixed idea about the league, but is merely trying to hold the warring elements in the party together. In this way Cox hopes to bring about a split between the Borah-Johnson "irreconcilables" and the Root-Taft factions, which, he believes, are sincerely in favor of the league of nations.

Governor Cox was in good humor today as a result of the victory of the Cleveland baseball club in the world's series. He sent a telegram of congratulation to Tris Speaker.

MAN O'WAR AMAZED

Commander Ross By Easy Manner in Which He Won.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 13.—No excuses were being offered in defense of Sir Barton's defeat by the great Man O'War in their race for a $75,000 purse yesterday. The easy manner in which Samuel D. Riddle's three-year-old wonder horse ran away from Commander J. K. L. Ross's entry surprised even the most enthusiastic backers of Man O'War.

"It was simply amazing," was the comment of Commander Ross. "There's no horse in the world who can equal Man O'War."

Airman Lands In City Streets.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bloomfield, N. J., Oct. 13.—Motor trouble compelled an aviator to make a forced landing in the heart of this city today. Herbert Chandler, the airman, was taking a Curtis 4 plane from Newark, N. J., to Hazelhurst Field, Long Island, for the Cleveland, Ohio, mails when the motor went bad. Chandler landed in Harrison street, but jumped when the machine was ten feet from the ground. The airman was unhurt, but the machine was wrecked.

British Miners Favor Strike.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Oct. 13.—Incomplete returns from the coal fields today strengthened the belief that the miners' referendum vote will be strongly against the recent tentative agreement of the Federation of Miners and the colliery owners, and in favor of a general strike. The Welsh miners voted ten to one against the agreement and, according to early returns from other parts of the United Kingdom, the vote will be about five to one against the agreement.

OUR CASUALTIES 77 IN HAITI

In Five Year Period During Which Marines Have Killed 3,250 Bandits Barnett's Report Shows.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 13.—A summary of the report on conditions in Haiti from July, 1915, when American marines entered Haiti, until June 30, 1920, made by Brigadier General Barnett, former commandant of the marine corps, was made public by the navy department today.

The report shows that during that period 3,250 Haitian bandits were killed by marines and the gendarmerie. It is not possible to say how many were wounded. One marine officer was killed and two wounded and twelve enlisted men were killed and twenty-six wounded. Two officers and thirty-four enlisted men died from other causes.

General Barnett stated that while the deaths of bandits seem large, the operations covered a period of five and a half years, and it was his opinion that without the presence of the marines a greater number of Haitian citizens would have been killed by bandits.

PASQUALE OWNS TO NEW MURDER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Harrisburg, Oct. 13.—August Pasquale, confessed kidnapper and murderer of 15 months' old Blakely Coughlin of Norristown, Pa., and 75-year old Mrs. Rose Asherman, of Philadelphia, has also confessed to the murder of Edward Ryan, of Philadelphia, it developed today.

When Pasquale told Major Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the state police that he smothered the Coughlin baby and had killed an aged woman in a rooming house in Philadelphia, he did not tell of the killing of Ryan. Since Sunday he has admitted shooting and killing a man in a saloon at Eighth and Green streets in Philadelphia, which police records show was Ryan.

With these three murders already admitted, there is a strong suspicion that Pasquale was the murderer of Paymasters Zehner and Watkins, of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, on a lonely mountain road in the coal regions of Carbon county. The two men were killed while on their way to a coal colliery to pay off their men, their team being stopped on the mountain road and their bodies being found late in the day by miners. Pasquale is known to have lived and worked in the vicinity of the mining camps at the time and he disappeared immediately after the holdup and murder. Records of several other murders in eastern Pennsylvania, which have never been solved, are now being gone over to ascertain if Pasquale could have had some connection with them.

NIGHT RIDER DOINGS

To Be Investigated By Government Agents.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Agents of the department of justice throughout the south are today under orders to investigate "night riders" and their activities, it was announced by the department of justice.

Alleged threats to burn cotton and cotton gins if the production of cotton is not stopped for an indefinite period, will be thoroughly investigated and federal prosecutions will be ordered if the results of the investigation warrant, it was stated.

An investigation of the reported burning of stores of cotton at Cameron, Texas, and other places in that state, is now in progress.

Officials were of the opinion today that most of the alleged offenses would be found to be in violation of state laws, it was said.

CUBA SUGGESTS.

Way In Which U. S. Can Aid Island's Finances.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 13.—President Menocal of Cuba has made informal suggestions to the United States that this government, through financial and sugar interests, use its efforts in aiding Cuba's present financial difficulties and in moving the sugar crop. It was announced at the state department today. The Cuban president has suggested that one method of aiding Cuba would be by the American refiners fixing a price on the Cuban sugar crop. It is understood that suggestions has been made that a price be fixed at ten cents a pound.

The state department has taken no action on the suggestions of President Menocal.

SOVIETS WILL FREE AMERICANS

Nuorteva Blames This Government For Holding Russians Here and Refusing To Approach Soviet Government For Release of Americans Charged With Plotting and Espionage.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Moscow, Oct. 12.—(Via Wireless to Berlin, Oct. 13)—Five Americans detained in Soviet Russia on the charge of espionage, including Albert Boni, of New York, will be released, it was officially announced today.

In reply to questions by the International News Service correspondent as to whether Soviet Russia was holding the Americans as hostages to insure the safety of Russian prisoners in the United States, Director Nuorteva, of the department on Entente countries of the Russian foreign office, issued the following statement:

"Eight American prisoners in all were imprisoned in Russia. One of them, Kalamatino by name, was convicted of plotting of the gravest nature. The others were charged with espionage. Albert Boni, of New York, were among these latter. According to his own confession, Boni was asked by the American authorities in Berlin to do political spying in Russia which promise he was busy fulfilling when he was arrested. However, he and four other Americans who did not succeed in doing actual harm are being released and will shortly be deported now that the armistice with Poland makes such a step possible.

"The American government, through Dr. Nansen, has demanded the repatriation of all Americans, even those who were convicted (in Soviet Russia) of grave offenses. At the same time America is absolutely and unreasonably refusing to release Russians detained for much more pardonable offenses in the United States.

"The Soviet government is not blaming individual Americans for the stubbornness of the American government. Nevertheless we have shown a liberal attitude towards American civilians. Permits to leave have been granted by my department in most cases where American citizenship has been established.

"No doubt more satisfactory mutual results could be reached if it were not for the persistent refusal of the United States government to interest itself sufficiently in its own citizens to discuss the matter openly with the Soviet government."

IN GRIP OF FOG.

River Traffic Greatly Delayed by Heavy White Mist.

The Hudson river was firmly gripped in one of the heaviest fogs so far this season during the night and early this morning, delaying all river traffic. Both up and down river tows were forced to tie up until the mist lifted somewhat. The Hudson River Day Line steamer from Albany was also delayed by the fog.

The big dredge Hudson is in dry dock at Hiltebrant's undergoing repairs. The dredge is one of the largest seen in the Rondout creek, and carries a crew of twenty-five men. When repairs are completed she will be towed to New York city.

The tug Rob of the Cornell Line is still on dry dock undergoing repairs to her hull. While she is laid up the tugs Fields and Earl are doing the harbor work here. The Fields has been working on the barge canal and for that reason presents a somewhat unusual appearance to those who have not seen canal tugs. Her pilot house rests on the main deck and the big smokestack has been cut down over half its usual length. This has been done so that the tug can pass under the bridges.

This fall has seen considerable foggy weather and that fact has kept Captain James Murdock of the Rondout light busier than usual as in addition to trimming his lights he has to see to it that the big river fog bell is kept in action.

"Y" BOYS HIKE.

Forty-Three Go To Binnewater On Columbus Day.

Forty three Y. M. C. A. boys under Thomas A. Bridgen, secretary of boys' work, hiked to Binnewater Tuesday. They left the city at 9:30 in the morning, returning at 6 o'clock in the afternoon. "Eats" were prepared by them at Binnewater.

During the afternoon a football game was played between the Y boys and the Rev. Cole's Boy Scouts who had gone out earlier in the day. The Rev. Cole's boys won by a score of 2w to 2. The boys secured quantities of nuts and report them very abundant in that section.

WE SELL SO SOCONY MOTOR GASOLINE

The sign of a reliable dealer and the world's best Gasoline

Every motor highway and byway throughout picturesque New England and New York is a part of the long "Socony Trail".

MOTORISTS, commercial, truckmen and farmers—from Salem, Mass., to Oswego, N. Y.—have come to depend upon Socony products. Thus, ordinary demand has become a responsibility which the Standard Oil Company of New York is constantly striving to fulfil. This is the reason for the steady growth of Socony service.

Refining processes, like motor construction methods, are always being improved. Socony gasoline is made and tested in accordance with the most recent standards of accuracy—insuring uniform cleanness, constant mileage to every gallon and absolute dependability. There is a difference in gasoline—just as there is in coal. It will pay you to discriminate.

Socony is a straight-refinery gasoline. It vaporizes quickly, but it is more than a mere easy-starting fuel. Owners of large motor truck fleets use Socony regularly because it is uniformly high-powered and clean-burning.

Look for the red, white and blue Socony sign.

RIVES GIVEN $401.68 DAMAGES

At the opening of supreme court Tuesday morning the fifty additional jurors summoned reported and those not excused were sworn. In order to secure a jury for the trial of the Webster case it was necessary to summon fifty jurors in addition to the regular panel.

Before the Webster case was taken up for trial an inquest was taken in No. 156, an action brought by William R. Harrison and another against the Medusa Creamery and Mill Company to recover for goods sold and delivered. William D. Brinnier, Sr., appeared for the plaintiff and the court ordered judgment for the full amount, $922.92. A similar judgment was ordered in the case brought by William R. Harrison and another against John Metz and another to recover for goods sold, for $682.78, balance due plaintiff. There was no defense offered in either case.

A jury was taken in the case brought by Coy R. Rives against Luigi Ballestrino, an action brought to recover damages to Mr. Rives's automobile which was run into by the defendant's automobile on July 24, 1920, on the Rosendale road near the Black farm. Mr. Rives who resides in this city and at the time operated a taxi service, sought to recover for the damages to his machine and loss sustained while his machine was out of commision After hearing the testimony the jury retired and after a few minutes' deliberation brought in a verdict for the full amount sought, $401.68. Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., appeared for Mr. Rives.

The Webster case was next taken up and the selection and examination of the jury occupied the entire forenoon.

Cradle Boards.

There are nine different kinds of cradle boards used by the various tribes of North American Indians. The Eskimos did not use such a board. The baby was wrapped in the hood of the mother's fur coat. In the most southern tribes the baby was merely bound to the mother's back by a strip of cloth long enough to hold it.

185 audiences tried it this way

MOST people know that the musical enjoyment which they get out of a phonograph depends upon one thing. That thing is the phonograph's realism.

This picture shows the best way to test a phonograph's realism. Miss Betsy Lane Shepherd, the famous soprano, is standing beside the New Edison, and singing in direct comparison with the New Edison's RE-CREATION of her voice.

185 audiences, aggregating more than 100,000 people, have actually heard this comparison. None could distinguish between her living voice and its RE-CREATION.

This is one of the phenomenal records of realism. The New Edison holds all other records of realism, too, because no other phonograph attempts this comparison-test—or could sustain it.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

You try it this way

—the way we use in our store!—the Realism Test! Test the New Edison's Realism against the pleasure you know music can bring.

Tell us what kind of voice or instrument gives you truest musical enjoyment. Listen while we play your favorite on the New Edison. The Realism Test will enable you to gauge whether the New Edison's RE-CREATION gives you all of this enjoyment.

This is your test! It will help you determine what the New Edison's Realism means, in terms of your own musical enjoyment.

Ask for it! The "Personal Favorites" Realism Test.

Another thing to ask about is our Budget Plan. It disposes of the money question, in a way that will appeal to your common-sense and to your pocketbook.

TESTIMONY IN WEBSTER CASE

The jury in the Webster case was completed Tuesday afternoon and several witnesses were sworn and testimony taken. Testimony of several of the witnesses to the accident and of those who were in the vicinity of the West Shore railroad at the time the trolley car was struck by the train, was taken and County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran, who prepared maps and data of conditions at the Broadway crossing, was sworn and testified at great length in regard to distances and conditions existing at the time of the accident.

Testimony so far taken is practically the same as sworn to on the last trial before Justice Nichols. It is expected that the defendant West Shore railroad will introduce new points when the defence is taken up. The case will take several days, it having continued for a week last spring when the case came up before Justice Nichols in supreme court, before one of the jurors was approached and offers of money made, which resulted in a mistrial being declared and the case set down for re-trial at this term of supreme court before Justice H. D. B. Hasbrouck.

Today several additional witnesses were sworn by plaintiff with but very few new facts being brought to light. Van Etten & Cook appear for the plaintiff, Mrs. Webster, and William D Brinnier for the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company. Amos Van Etten and DuBois Gillette appear for defendant, railroad company.

The action is brought by Mrs. Webster to recover for the death of her husband who was riding in the trolley car at the time of the accident.

COOLIDGE REFUSES

To Let League Propaganda Loose on Schools.

Telegraph to The Freeman

Boston, Oct 13.—Turning down the request of a committee headed by President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard, to proclaim Sunday, October 24, as "League of Nations Day," and requesting teachers in the public schools to explain the league, Governor Coolidge today declared he must refuse to make Massachusetts a mill for grinding out propaganda. He said he had no objection to having people know about the league but hoped the senate reservations would be read along with it.

McCardle's Lapse Nearly Costly.

This afternoon a young man named McCardie while driving up the Hasbrouck avenue hill let his eyes stray from the road ahead to the windows of the F. & D. cigar factory where a number of pretty girls could be seen busily engaged in rolling cigars. When he withdrew his eyes and glanced ahead it was to find that he was just about to cross the railroad tracks in front of an onrushing coal train. McCardie retained presence enough of mind to frantically turn his steering wheel and his car escaped hitting the train by a foot and dashed up on the sidewalk landing against the sidewall of the Herbert factory. The car was not damaged.

A REAL REMEDY FOR FALLING HAIR

Keeps Scalp Fresh and Healthy—Prevents Dandruff.

If you hair is falling out badly, or is faded, dry, streaked and scraggly and new hair does not grow, the roots must be immediately vitalized and properly nourished.

To do this quickly, safely, and most effectively, get a bottle of Parisian Sage from your druggist and follow the simple directions for home use.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed to quickly banish all dandruff stop itching scalp and falling hair and stimulate a new growth, or money refunded. It's in great demand by discriminating women because it makes the hair so soft, lustrous, and easy to manage, and appear much heavier than it really is.

A massage with Parisian Sage is a real delight—easy to use, not sticky, a daintily perfumed antiseptic liquid that does not change the hair's natural color.

If you want a clean, healthy scalp, and a mass of thick, good-looking hair, start using Parisian Sage now—tonight. Charles L. McBride will supply you and guarantee money refunded if not satisfactory.

Bragg-LeRoux.

Miss Juliette LeRoux and Ralph Bragg, both of Highland, were married Sunday at St. Mary's rectory, Poughkeepsie, by the Rev. John F. Lyons, assistant rector. They were attended by Miss Blanche LeRoux and Adrian LeRoux. Mr. and Mrs. Bragg will make their home in Highland.

Garden Club.

The "Ulster Garden Club" was entertained on Tuesday afternoon, October 12, at the home of Mrs. Charles Tappen, Maiden Lane, the speaker of the afternoon being John Aspinwall of Newburgh, who gave a most instructive talk on "Bees," illustrated by very unusual slides. Mr. Aspinwall is an authority on this subject, having made a study of it for many years and possessing a most charming personality, he afforded a rare treat for all.

Riozzi-Scarcelli.

The marriage of Miss Chazzie Scarcelli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Scarcelli, and Angelo Riozzi was solemnized in St. Joseph's Church, Glasco, Sunday morning, the Rev. Father John B. Eula officiating. The bride was beautifully gowned in white. The bridesmaid, Miss Laura Scarcelli, wore a lovely blue gown. Charles Smocco was groomsman. After the ceremony a bountiful dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Riozzi are occupying their home in the Hogan house which he had previously furnished.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Alfred France, a much respected resident of Ruby, died Friday, October 8th, after a long illness due to a cancer. He leaves a wife, one daughter, Mrs. C. E. Ryall of Newton Center, Mass., and one son, Charles H. France of Torrington, Conn. Mr. France was well known in Saugerties and Kingston where he had many friends.

Joseph Reilly, well known as an officer of the Catskill police force for many years, died in Albany City Hospital Sunday. He was taken to the Albany Hospital in June last, suffering from a tubercular complaint. He is survived by one son, Joseph, and by two daughters, Anna, of Schenectady, and Mrs. Lamont Wolven, of Catskill.

William Moyle of 22 Brewster street received a cablegram this morning from Buenos Aires, South America, announcing the death there of his brother, Samuel J. Moyle. He is survived by his wife, two children, five sisters and two brothers. Mr. Moyle was superintendent for the United States Shoe Machinery Company, and had been in South America about eighteen years.

Former Assemblyman Joseph H. Storm of Poughkeepsie died at Vassar Brothers' Home for Aged Men on Monday, following a long illness Mr. Storm was the son of the late John V. and Jeannette Wooley Storm, and was in his 79th year. He had been ill for some time. The deceased was the son-in-law of Nelson B. Sheldon, prominent in Republican politics in Poughkeepsie and was himself a former supervisor of the Town of Beekman, and for two years a member of Assembly from the First District. He was also well-known as a lover of good horses and owned a farm near Green Haven, in Dutchess county.

Frederick J. Cornwell, for twenty-nine years postmaster of Rhinebeck, died at his home Saturday. He was the son of James B. Cornwell and was sixty-eight years of age. Since 1875 he had conducted a general store at Rhinebeck. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Edna. Mr. Cornwell first served as postmaster under the administration of President Harrison and for four years under President Cleveland. Since before the administration of President McKinley he served continuously disregarding the change of administration. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon.

NEED PUBLIC MARKET.

For Both Farmer and Consumer, Is Ex-Farmer's Conclusion.

Editor, Kingston Freeman:

I read your article in today's issue, "Spuds Went Begging."

If the farmer near the Ashokan Dam that has a thousand bushel of potatoes will insert a classified ad. in the "for sale" column of this paper and run it for about a week, offering to deliver to the consumers address in this town good smooth, sound, first grade potatoes in five or more bushel lots at $1.00 per 60 pound bushel, he won't have to feed them to his hogs, except the small ones. Consumers are now paying at the rate of $1.50 to $2.00 per bushel to our merchants which means that we are paying them about 100% profit and, there are hundreds of consumers in town that will be glad of an opportunity to lay in their winter potatoes at something like the pre-war prices. The trouble with the farmers is that they have to go the limit and get the same price as the merchant when selling to the consumer. I think it's about time the question of a public market is brought up again. Nearly every town in the county has its public market where he can go and purchase country produce direct from the producer during the morning hours.

Apple That All Understand.

The variety of knowledge is one of the marvels and mysteries, yet beyond the grammar and the etymology there is forever a fundamental fact—that men are brothers in the blood, related to help and to serve one another in time of need. If anger, distrust, dishonor and confusion speak for themselves. We can tell when our brother has need of our aid, through his appeal in smile, or handclasp, or in an outstretched tongue.—Exchange.

Weather So Overdesigned.

One Sunday morning Robert's mother gave him two nickels to put in the collection basket at church. Robert and his mother were late that morning and had to sit in the balcony. Robert's mother noticed that he put only one nickel in the basket when it passed him. On the way home she asked him why he did this. He replied: "Why, mother, you know half-way cents are always half price."

Overcoming Opinion.

Obstacles look large or small to the man in proportion to his strength and determination to master them. If a mole sees they look large; if a large man, difficulties look small in comparison with the advantage of what he hopes the end will be proposed. The leader always go the greatest the obstacle, the greater is the perseverance and grit to overcome them.—Grimes Sweet Harden in Chicago News.

Life's Best Tasks.

Life calls upon us to fill the place of men and women in the ranks of courageous world workers—given us unassigned jobs in the service of our fellow men. Every week carries aside from these tasks is traitorous to our own self respect. If we shrink because the work is hard, we forfeit our own respect and that of everyone who knows us.—Grimes Sweet Harden in Chicago News.

Concerning Weathers.

"The effect of whiskers," said Pat Perkins, "depends on who happens to be wearing them. On a regular man they look like whiskers, but on some people they look like summer furs."

Practice System.

The system of—The thought, the plan the purpose, the success of your day is measured in value by your application of each—of system.—George Matthew Adams.

KINGSTON, N. Y., OCT. 13, 1920

The announcement that there are now more city people in the United States than country people is somewhat modified by the explanation that every town of 2,500 is put down as a city.

If the Government can locate that $340,000 shipment of Russian gold for Bolshevist propaganda in this country, it might appropriate and apply it in part payment of Russia's $187,000,000 debt to this country which has little chance of collection.

America has almost half as much invested in automobiles as in railroads. According to the Railway Age, there were 7,623,551 motor vehicles registered in this country in 1919, costing not less than seven billion dollars. It is estimated that the public is spending more than six billions of dollars a year, or $260 per family, for the operation and upkeep of these cars, about 87 per cent of which are passenger cars.

THE POOR AND THE COURTS.

In a land of equal opportunity and justice is it right that the man of means shall procure the best lawyers and secure a new trial in a higher court through his ability to pay the cost of the processes, while the man lacking in the necessary funds is denied both? This question has been asked more often in recent years than in former times, and in consequence there has been considerable progress in the direction of solving the problem of complete justice for the poor in the courts. The subject was discussed at the recent annual meeting of the American Bar Association, some of the speakers adding new suggestions as well as pointing to the progress already made. In addition to the philanthropy of the Legal Aid Society there are now in some of the states so-called "small claims" courts which meet the need for expeditious and inexpensive handling of petty cases, and many judges are of their own initiative so ordering their work as to come into harmony with this general purpose.

The great need, now widely recognized, is a simplification of court procedure and provision for competent legal advice at small cost. Whether in Federal, State or municipal courts, the poor man ought to be able to secure competent legal advice for a very small outlay. Such complete justice for the poor in the courts would do much to check radicalism of the harmful sort and tend to strengthen American institutions through the creation of greater confidence in them. The lack of such full justice, or the incompleteness of the solution of the problem, is no doubt harped on by the incendiary enemies of our government and the preachers of social revolution.

GERMANY AND AUSTRIA.

The once great empire of Austria-Hungary is now reduced to a small tract inhabited mostly by men of German blood. It is no surprise, therefore, to hear that the Austrian National Assembly has decided to take a plebiscite on the question of joining Germany. The proposed union is said to be favored in Austria by Pan-Germans, Socialists and others who think business will be benefited. It is opposed by Hohenzollern-hating mountaineers, men who fear that Viennese culture will lose its distinctiveness, and others who dread domination from Berlin. The most powerful opponent, however, is France, the French Foreign Office having announced that "important measures" will be taken to prevent the union. After suffering so much at the hands of Germany, it is natural enough for the French to object to the proposal to strengthen her old enemy through the incorporation of seven theoss Germans.

Though the annexation of Austria would strengthen Germany, it is argued that it would weaken the grip of Prussia—the real enemy of France—by reinforcing the anti-Prussian elements. Catholic Austria would be expected to side with the Catholic Rhinelend, Bavaria and the other south German States that have ever resented Prussian domination. For this reason the French policy has been called unwise, but it is easy to understand that the French are not disposed to take chances. Whatever the outcome, the proposition and the present low estate of the once proud and commanding Austrian empire furnish an impressive illustration of the mutability of human affairs.

POINT EWEN.

SHANDAKEN EVENS SERIES.

Stoudt, Kingston Pitcher, Wins Game Against Fleischmanns.

Fleischmanns, Oct. 13.—Shandaken won from Fleischmanns here in their last game of the season on October 2, before a record crowd by the score to 7 to 5, and evened the series at two each. Freddie Stoudt, a Kingston player, did the pitching for Shandaken and was lucky to win.

The game was interesting from start until finish and only the errors of the Fleischmanns team enabled Shandaken to win. In the third inning, with one out and two on base, Jocelyn misjudged a fly in left field and two runs scored on this error. A couple of innings later Bouton, the Fleischmanns pitcher, tried to catch a man off third and he made a wild peg, allowing another man to score.

Fleischmanns had a great opportunity to win in the eighth when Robinson singled to center, his third hit off Stoudt. Etts singled, putting Robinson on second. Moore was out on an infield fly. Clum grounded to second and all runners were safe on an error. Lummis here had a great opportunity, but grounded weakly to second and Robinson was out at the plate. Faulkner was then hit by a pitched ball and Etts scored. Jocelyn, then at bat, after swinging at one, received a base on balls and Clum scored. Then Polly put an end to the inning by grounding to the pitcher.

Fleischmanns wish to thank Phoenicia and her players for the fine sportsmanship they showed, and also we wish to say they are a team worthy of consideration to any town.

Greene County Business.

The Catskill Chamber of Commerce is about to inaugurate a campaign to raise $5,000 to advertise the Greene county Catskills next year.

DEED SIGNED BY KING GEORGE III

Walton Van Loan of Catskill has in his possession a very interesting deed or grant by King George III of lands in Greene county, made on November 11, 1765. The grant conveys 6,000 acres of land in East Kill valley, Greene county, near Tannersville and half a mile from Catskill Park. The property is at present owned by Gilbert Colgate, of the firm of Colgate & Co., the noted makers of soaps and perfumes.

The deed is a formidable document, 28x18 inches in size, transcribed in the meticulous roundhand writing of the period on heavy sheepskin and having the great seal of the Colony of New York attached. This seal, in time-darkened wax, is 4½ inches in diameter.

The deed grants to "Donald McLean, Gentleman, late Surgeon to our Seventy-seventh Regiment of Foot, Malachy Treat, Gentleman, late Surgeon Mate in our Forty-seventh Regiment of Foot, being reduced staff officers, and Neal McLean, Gentleman, late Lieutenant in our said Forty-seventh Regiment, being a reduced subaltern officer, having respectively served in North America in the late war" (the said war being the French and Indian war) the said tracts and parcels of lands in equal parts "with their and every of their appurtenances," as tenants in common and not as joint tenants, clear and quit rent for ten years but at the end thereof "paying therefore yearly for every year thereafter unto us, our heirs and successors at our Customm House in the City of New York unto our or their Collector or Receiver General therefor, the time being on the Feast of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary commonly called Lady Day, the yearly rent of two shillings in six pence sterling for each and every hundred acres of every such granted land," etc.

The lands so conveyed are minutely described, and the deed or grant is accompanied by a map of the conveyed lands, one plot showing 5,070 acres lying mostly north of the "Schehary Kill" and 922 acres west of the "Catskill Patent."

AT THE THEATRES.

Musical Comedy at Opera House—Earle Williams at Keeney's.

"The Doings of the Duffs," musical comedy of an excellent type with whistly tunes, girls that are far from hard to look at it promises to provide laughs galore for all who attend the Opera House tonight.

Earle Williams in "The Master Stroke," at Keeney's tonight offers a story of high finance; of a youth who is down to his last dollar and with poor prospects of obtaining more. Frederic Van Rensselaer Dey gives this old theme a new twist and presents a fascinating comedy with just enough Wall street gamble to make it exciting. Other features are Gaumont News, Pathe Review, Topics of the Day and a Mutt and Jeff Cartoon. Tomorrow Enid Bennett in "The False Road," another story of the theme of "Alias Jimmy Valentine."

The Auditorium tonight presents Tom Mix in "Twisted Trails," a stirring western melodrama, also "The Hand of Peril," a sensational dramatic portrayal of a false friend and how a woman redeemed herself. Tomorrow "Common Sense" with an all star cast of comedy favorites, also a Kay Bee Western, "The Frontier Outlaw."

WALLKILL PYTHIANS

Are Visited By Grand Officers From Kingston.

New Paltz, Oct. 13.—A very interesting meeting of the members of Wallkill Lodge, Knights of Pythias, was held Tuesday evening at their castle hall when the lodge was visited by Grand Chancellor Palmer Canfield of Kingston and Deputy Grand Chancellor Guy C. Crosby and a delegation from Franklin Lodge, No. 37, K. of P., of Kingston. The grand chancellor gave a very interesting talk on the work for the coming year in the state and a report of the district meeting held Monday evening at Kingston was given. Wallkill Lodge is planning for an active campaign for members this coming winter and a social event in the near future at which time the benefits of Pythianism will be demonstrated.

LADLETON.

Ladleton, Oct. 13.—P. M. Roberts, Ernest Ditch, George, Julia and Sarah Hamilton and Miss Jessie Tullis spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mackey.

Dan Sagendorf has left Ladleton for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Anderson are entertaining several friends at present.

B. Yorke expects to leave the farm on Glade Hill and move to Delaware county the coming week.

Mrs. Myers and Mrs. A. Mackey made a business trip to Liberty Monday.

Men Needed for Tower Jobs.

On December 2 and 3 an examination will be held for junior examiner and deck officer, U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey. The annual entrance salary is $2,000, which will be increased to $2,240 after one year of satisfactory service. The government is urgently in need of eligibles to fill these positions. For full information apply to the local secretary, H. G. Le Roy, main post office.

Taxpayers' Ass'n. Meeting.

This evening a meeting of the members of the Taxpayers' Association will be held at Hoester's Hall, Broadway, when among other matters of local interest to be discussed will be proposed increase in rates by the Kingston Gas & Electric Company, in this city. The association plans in the matter will be decided upon.

Fuel bills cut down
Money and comfort saved—you can do it

DEMONSTRATION NEXT WEEK

You'd kick a thief out of your house in short order. What about a heating system that steals money and comfort from you, that keeps your home cold and runs up unreasonable and unnecessary bills?

There's no need of having a cold house and big fuel bills. You can cut down your fuel bills from one-third to one-half. And even on coldest winter days your house can have that good, warm comfort that feels just like warm sunlight does on the back of your neck on a chilly spring day.

We can actually show you how you can have better heating for less money, and how an Andes System One Pipe Furnace can be installed in your house in just one day.

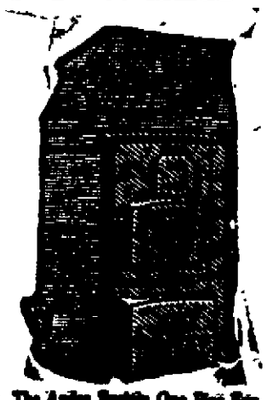
Don't miss demonstration next week

We are going to give the best part of our time next week to introduce this wonderful money-saving Andes System One Pipe Furnace. We would like to demonstrate it to you. It represents the most modern method of heating—a method which has entirely changed our ideas of the cost of heating, both first cost and cost of operation.

Your opportunity

Don't miss this opportunity. Let us show you this new Andes System One Pipe Furnace. During this coming week we are making a special effort to explain clearly and carefully just how it guards your family's health; just how it can be installed at practically no cost in only one day; just how it brings a big, generous amount of extra comfort; just how it saves fuel money every day you use it.

Don't forget that winter is coming again with the same old winter troubles which wreck the usefulness of ordinary heating systems. Don't be caught again. This is your chance to prevent it. We guarantee the Andes, anyway, and just coming in to see it didn't mean that you have to buy.



The Andes System One Pipe Furnace is the most modern method of heating. It's simplest and best because it can be installed in a single day and because it cuts down fuel bills from one-third to one-half. Best of all, it gives that comfortable heat you always wanted. The price ranges according to size from $400 up. See this furnace most week at our demonstration.

Our guarantee
If your Andes One Pipe Furnace is not perfectly satisfactory, it will be taken out and the full purchase price refunded.

FREE
We will give away absolutely free (value $6.00) with every Andes System One Pipe Furnace sold during this special demonstration next week only, an Andes Furnace Clock which automatically opens the drafts and heats up the house just before you get up in the morning.

MENTAL CLINIC FRIDAY.

State Experts May be Consulted Free at 74 John Street.

Dr Maurice C Ashley, superintendent of the Middletown State Hospital, announces that the next session of the free clinic for nervous and mental disorders will be held at 74 John street October 15, from 10 to 12 a. m., and from 1 to 3 p. m.

Any person who desires to attend the session for consultation, information and advice as to his or her mental health or to the mental health of a friend or relative, is cordially invited to do so.

Dr Moore, a specialist from the hospital, will be present to advise and consult with all who desire to see him.

Paroled patients are urged to report to the social worker, Miss Hurley, at the clinic also.

DAIRYMEN TO MOVE.

Cooperative Association to Locate in Utica.

The Dairymen's League Cooperative Association will move its main office from New York city to the city of Utica, N. Y. The office of the Dairymen's League itself will probably be moved in a short time also. The main reason for the change of office of the league is the saving that can be made in conducting the business up-state instead of in New York city.

It is almost a certainty now that the pooling proceeds of the members' milk into a common fund will soon be in operation.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Charming Gown.

Pattern 3247 is shown in this illustration. It is cut in 7 sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size will require 4¾ yards of 36 inch material for the dress and 1¾ yards for the jumper or over blouse. The width of the skirt at lower edge is 1¾ yards.

As here portrayed, handkerchief linen was used, embroidered in blue. The girdle is of blue linen cord. Crochet buttons trim the jumper. This design is good for ratine, repp, crepe, wash silk, chambray, voile, gingham, taffeta and crepe.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or 1c and 2c stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 12c in coin or stamps for our up-to-date fall and winter 1920-1921 catalogue, containing 400 designs of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 36 of the various, simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

RECENT OPINIONS

"That The Public May Know"

From time to time, we have published in this column, quotations from recent Public Service Commission rate decisions. We believe they are important in their bearing on the local situation because they come from high authority and the principles involved are the same.

Here are two more:

P. S. C. of Ohio—"Having determined the value of the property used and useful in furnishing the service and what sum must be realized to pay operating expenses, depreciation reserve, return on the investment and the like, the object of regulation is to see that the rates are so adjusted as to yield that sum and no more."

P. S. C. of Maryland—"The fixing of rates of charge for the service of public utilities is essentially a business proposition. * the high cost of financing in the case of public utilities is one which ordinarily falls directly upon the consumer and must be paid by him through the rates charged for the service. Under the circumstances, this Commission has no hesitancy in saying that the best interests of the public with respect to the petitioning company require that it should earn a balance of not materially less than one and a half times its fixed charges after the payment of operating expenses, taxes and the making of reasonable allowances for its accident and depreciation reserves."

NO GIFT TOO SMALL FOR HOME

The donation party at the Home for the Aged will be held Thursday afternoon at the home, which is located at 95 Green street.

So much general interest has been aroused in this effort to fill the store room of the institution with a good stock of winter supplies that a very generous response is anticipated.

It only remains to say again that no gift is too small to be appreciated, that every donor is welcome to inspect the home during the afternoon, and that well-wishers who find it too much of a mental strain to think of something to bring can relieve their brain pressure and at the same time lighten the heart by bringing money or mailing a check.

In case of stormy weather, the home will be open to visitors and gifts the following day also.

MEDALS AWAIT SERVICE MEN

Emblems for All Who Served in World War Ready for Distribution on Armistice Day.

Nearly 5,000,000 Victory medals, turned out by a lengthy and involved process of manufacture, now are awaiting former service men. Thousands of these medals will be presented to veterans on Armistice day by posts of the American Legion, which have arranged elaborate ceremonies in honor of the occasion. The medal was designed by James Earl Frazer.

Phases never before met with in medal production were met with by the contractors in the making of the decorations with their ribbons, battle clasps and bars, and to handle certain steps in the process of manufacture new machines were invented. One of these was a ribbon-cutting machine which turned out 90 pieces a minute and in the course of a day did a quantity of work equal to the labors of 15 people.

A striking machine with a force of 175 tons a blow was used on the medals after the disks had been annealed following which there came the application of a hydraulic pressure of 120 pounds. An automatic sand blast and an alcohol bath also were utilized before putting the final lacquer on the medal.

Not only Legionnaires but many other ex-service men will take part in the Armistice day celebrations in all sections of the country and will receive their medals with formal observance of their significance.

C. ROBERT BAINS.

Bains first began to take life seriously as a cub reporter in his native Brooklyn fourteen years ago. He drifted into the newspaper advertising field and followed it until 1916, when he went to the Mexican border with the National Guard mobilization.

Bains began army life skinning mules as a buck private in the old Second New York field artillery. Except for a brief tour with the Twelfth infantry on the border, he stuck to the field guns and passed successively through every grade in the enlisted and commissioned ranks to that of major. He went overseas with the Three Hundred and Eleventh remount squadron and later commanded the base remount depot of the army of occupation in Germany. He is thirty-four years old.

A safety razor and stropping device combined in one

NO shaving edge, whether it is a barber's straight razor or a safety razor blade, can keep its original keenness for more than one or two shaves without stropping.

Stropping—that's the real secret of shaving comfort.

You can be sure of a fine, keen edge for every shave if you use the AutoStrop Razor—the razor that sharpens its own blades.

Built right into the frame of the AutoStrop Razor is a remarkable self-stropping device—simple and efficient—which renews the fine, keen edge of the AutoStrop blade day after day.

You don't have to take the razor apart nor remove the blade. Just slip the strop through the razor head, and move the razor back and forth along the strop.

In 10 seconds you have a new, sharp shaving edge!

500 cool, comfortable shaves are guaranteed from every dozen blades!

Ask your dealer today about the AutoStrop Razor trial plan.

There is Something in a Tube besides Rubber

WHAT every motorist hasn't yet found out is that you can't always judge the quality of a tube by the kind of materials that go into it.

U. S. Red Tubes contain the pick of the world's rubber—more and more of it coming from the United States Rubber Company's own plantations in Sumatra.

But what gives them their quality is the United States Rubber Company's manufacturing experience—longer and more varied than that of any other rubber organization.

FRENCH WAR ORPHANS' FUND

Total Reaches $1,275, Sufficient to Care for Seventeen Children for One Year.

A total of $1,275, or enough to provide for 17 French war orphans for a year, had been contributed to the Legion fund, for the readoption of the war waifs who formerly were proteges of the late A. E. F., according to the books of the Legion national treasurer, Robert H. Tyndall, up to the close of business on August 14.

Posts of the Legion, or individual members or friends, may adopt a French war orphan for at least one year by contributing $75 for the first year's support. The money should be sent to the French War Orphans Fund, National Treasurer, Indianapolis, Ind. It will then be turned over to the American Red Cross, which will assign the children and supervise the expenditure of the money.

A specific child will be assigned to each adoptive post or individual and a photograph of each infant will be forwarded to the adopter, who thereafter may keep in touch with the war orphan either direct or through the Red Cross. The Red Cross bears all expense of administration so that all money contributed goes direct to the support of the child.

WRANGEL SOLE SOVIET OPPONENT

Pole Protocol Signed but Armistice Not Effective Until Oct. 18—Wrangel to Feel Full Strength of Lenine's Forces.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Oct. 13.—The signing of the Russo-Polish peace protocol at Riga leaves soviet Russia today with only one powerful enemy to combat —the army of General Wrangel on the Crimean front. Advices from Riga and Moscow indicate that the soviet will concentrate all its available fighting forces against General Wrangel's army in an effort to win a military decision or to force the anti-bolshevik forces in southern Russia to make peace.

The Russo-Polish peace protocol was signed at Rica last night but the armistice on the Russo-Polish battle front will not be effective until October 18.

The peace terms give Poland large acquisitions of territory to the north, east and south of her old boundaries. She will share in Russia's gold reserve but will get no indemnity. Poland will secure a corridor to the Baltic between Lithuania and soviet Russia which will make impossible an alliance between those countries and shut Russia off from a direct commercial route to the Baltic through Lithuania.

Russia and Poland agreed not to interfere with each other's domestic affairs.

With Russia and Poland at peace it is possible that the movement may be revived for a general peace conference of Russia and the Russian border states in London. France would prove an obstacle to such a parley as she has recognized the de facto government of General Wrangel which is actively at war against soviet Russia.

The Hon. Alexander M. Carlisle, prominent Belfast Irishman, and a Privy Councillor, who was recently barred from the House of Lords because of his refusal to apologize for saying the Irish coercion bill might kill England. Mr. Carlisle, standing on the steps of the throne of the Lord Chancellor, delivered his fourteen-word protest, which created a sensation in England: "My Lords, if you pass this bill you may kill England but no; Ireland!" On the request of the House of Lords, Earl Curzen, foreign secretary, sent a formal demand to Mr. Carlisle for an apology, which was refused.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Francis A. Carlin of No. 471 Abeel streett and Miss Elizabeth Rarey of No. 61 German street were united in marriage on Sunday by the Rev. John P. Neumann of St. Peter's Church. The best man was William T. Kerr and the bridesmaid Miss Lena Rarey.

Lannon-O'Donnell.

John A. Lannon of No. 30 Staples street and Miss Catherine O'Donnell of No. 66 Pine Grove avenue were united in marriage on Tuesday by the Rev. John P. Neumann of St. Peter's Church. They were attended by John W. A. Schultz and Miss Katherine Baldens.

Soikanishade Club.

The Soikanishade Club met Monday with Miss Bessie Brewster, St. James court. Mrs. Rice gave a reading on "Labor, Caste and Class in South America." The club is being represented at the state convention at Utica by Mrs. H. P. Van Wagenen. The club adjourned to hold its first evening meeting Monday, October 18, at 7:30 o'clock with Mrs. Cora E. Drake of 83 O'Neil street.

Variety Shower.

On Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Krengloskie a variety shower was tendered Miss May McNulty by Mrs. Leo C. Perry in honor of her approaching marriage to Leo J. Krengloskie. During the evening the guests made merry, vocal and instrumental music being indulged in. Refreshments were served and the guests left for home having spent an enjoyable evening and wishing the bride-to-be a very happy future. The home was artistically decorated for the occasion. Among those present were Mrs. Fred Reinhardt, Mrs. Ed. Kearney, Mrs. Leo C. Perry, Kathryn and Nora McGrath, Nellie and May McNulty, Grace and Emily Bailey, Susie and Elizabeth Waterman, Margaret McGowan, Anna Dolan, Julia Darwak and Minnie Brayton.

Farewell Party.

A farewell party was given in honor of Miss Olive Terwilliger at her home in Binnewater Tuesday evening, October 12. Games and dancing were enjoyed during the evening. At midnight a buffet luncheon was served. In the wee small hours the guests departed wishing Miss Olive success in her new home. Those present were: Schuyler Millham, Walter Simpson of New Paltz, Paul Nelson, Howard Kelder, William Coldston of Kingston, Walter Pine, Berton Davis, Vernon Davis, Harry Osterhoudt, Cornelius Barley, Delancy Castor, Teddy Wygant, Herbert Shurock, Walter Schaefer, Everett Barringer, The Misses Catherine Eselby, Lydia Finney, Jeannette Grimes of Kingston, Olive Terwilliger, Nellie Connor, Marion and Catherine Osterhoudt, Mary Burr, Tressa Nichols, Rose Ellen Davis, Helen Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Lyong, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Terwilliger.

Elmendorf-Hansen.

Miss Edna L. Hansen of Ferndale, California, became the bride of Tracy L. Elmendorf of Kingston, N. Y., on Sunday, September 26th, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Hansen of Ferndale. Rev. R. D. Douglas of the Congregational Church officiated and the couple were attended by Miss Constance Meng, a cousin of the bride and Clayton S. Elmendorf of Kingston, N. Y., a brother of the groom. The bride wore a charming white satin gown and carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations and ferns. Miss Meng also wore a pretty white dress and carried pink carnations and ferns. The Hansen home was prettily decorated with cut blossoms and greens. Following the wedding ceremony a wedding banquet was served in the dining room, which was especially attractive with the pink and green color scheme. The groom is a graduate of Rutgers College at New Brunswick, N. J., and during the war served several months in France as a Lieutenant in the Aviation Service. When Mr. Elmendorf returned to the United States he accepted a position as manager of one of the California Central Creameries which is located at Eureka, where Mr. and Mrs. Elmendorf expect to make their home until the holidays then they will visit Mr. Elmendorf's parents in New York state.—Arcade Union.

Little Fellow Has Big Party.

On Saturday, October 9, Master Bernard Bergman was given a birthday party by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Bergman at his home, 69 Hasbrouck avenue in honor of his eighth birthday. Music was played by Milton Lehr and dances were given by Dorothy Kleine, Jerome Lehr and Edna Bergman. Recitations were rendered by Charlotte Kleine, Bernard Bergman, Ruth Sussin, Edna Bergman, Eva Novick, Selma Lehr and Sidney Bergman. A group picture was taken of all present and after the games they all marched into the dining room. In the center of the table was a birthday cake with eight candles which Master Bernard lighted. A delicious luncheon was served consisting of sandwiches, cocoa, cake, fruit, candy and nuts, after which the little folks left for their homes wishing Bernard many more happy birthdays. He was the recipient of many useful and handsome gifts. Those present were Myron Crowell, Melvin Adicoff, Morris and Hilda Michael, Milten Jerome, Selma and Elaine Lehr, Bernard, Edna and Sidney Bergman, Harry, Ruth, Lillian and Herbert Sussin, Alton Shader, Evelyn, Morris and Gerald Gerber, David and Anna Balzam, Harry, Gertrude and Abe Levine, Dorothy Berman, Dorothy and Charlotta Kleine, Sarah and Harold Kantrowitz, Esther, Herman and Rose Cohen, Ruth Weinberg, Ruth and Mason Mufson, Lillian Sherry, Rose and Pansy Remming, Eva and Diana Novack, Sam Paul, Sam and Alice Blank, Dora, Anna and Lillian Pernett, Kate Rosensweig, Mr. and Mrs. D. Bergman, Mrs. W. P. Lehr, Mrs. J. Balzam, Mrs. B. Sussin, Mrs. L. Adicoff, Mrs. M. Berman, Mrs. E. Shader, Mrs. Gerber, Mrs. Michael Mrs. Blank, Mrs. Levine, Mrs. Gus Crowell.

Hoffmann-Gruver.

Before a congregation of several hundred relatives and friends Miss Esther Whitehead Gruver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gruver of 91 Clifton avenue, was married to Henry Christian Hoffmann of New York city, at four o'clock Tuesday afternoon in Holy Cross Church by Father Gregory Mabry, the rector of the parish. Tall palms, autumn leaves, and bright colored flowers were used profusely in decorating the choir and sanctuary of the church, and white lilies were used on the high altar, while garden flowers of the season were beautiful on the side altars and shrines. The usual number of nuptial lights flickered on the high altar, before which the ceremony took place. All lending a brilliant scene for a very impressive and beautiful service. Walter Kidd, Jr., organist of the church, rendered several organ numbers during the gathering of the congregation, and promptly at four o'clock the choir began the singing of the processional, Westlake's setting of "Lord, Who Cana's Wedding Feast," during the singing of which the priest and his servers, Leroy and Richard Gruver, brothers of the bride, took their place at the entrance of the choir screen. The groom, attended by his brother, George J. Hoffmann, Jr., as best man, entered from the chapel door, while the bride leaning on the arm of her father came through the long aisle of the church. After the betrothal ceremony at the screen the choir sang Joseph Barby's "O Perfect Love" while the participants made their way to the high altar before which the marriage took place. Mr. Kidd played Schubert's "Serenade" during the ceremony. The wedding party retired from the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march. The bride was exquisitely gowned in white chiffon and real lace over a foundation of satin, wearing a headdress of tulle and lillies of the valley, and she carried an ivory-bound prayer book, from which fell a shower bouquet of lillies of the valley. A very interesting feature of the ceremony was the fact that the service was read from the prayer book that was used at the marriage of the bride's mother and father thirty years ago. A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gruver, where many beautiful gifts were displayed. The young couple left early in the evening on a bridal journey, but will be at home after November the first at Hartsdale, N. Y., where a new home has been prepared by the groom. Mrs. Hoffmann is exceedingly well known and beloved in Kingston, where she has always lived. The groom is a rising young man in the exporting business in New York; and served for eighteen months in France, with commendation.

WHEN BLANKET IS REMOVED

Russians May Be a Great People When the Bolshevik Cloud Has Been Dissipated.

Nobody can tell what a horse looks like until his blanket is taken off.

Who knows! When this unspeakable bolshevik screen is removed maybe the Russians will emerge as a great race. Every people has done hard and queer things at times, "Girard" writes in the Philadelphia Press.

Oxford university is, perhaps, the intellectual center of the earth, and yet Oxford was so benighted that it burned the books of John Milton, as blasphemous. It was Oxford, also, which declared during the Revolutionary war, "that Americans as a people have forfeited their lives and their fortunes in the justice of a state."

Now look at the other side. In that same war, the czar of Russia refused to sell 20,000 soldiers to King George to fight against George Washington.

And we, here in the United States constantly abuse the Turk, who kills an Armenian now and then, and forget how we killed the Indians for three centuries. On one occasion, the zealous Christians of New England, not far from Harvard, shut up 700 Pequinot in a modern prison and, according to John Fiske, all but five were burned to death or murdered.

So I say that in the next century the Russian and the Turk may travel around the circle as fast as John Bull and Uncle Jonathan have in the last hundred or two years.

WHEN LIGHT DAWNED ON HIM

Young Man Understood Why the Maiden at First Shrank From His Warm Embrace.

After the glory of the setting sun it was dark. The man felt afraid as he stumbled on after his companion who, woman-like, went straight ahead, regardless of all obstacles.

Angry murmurs from the unseen people whose toes they trampled on followed them like the wash of a steamer. But she paid no heed; to him fell the duty of muttering apologies.

Just as despair was seizing him he saw her straight ahead. She had obtained a seat. Mad investigation showed that the one next to hers was empty. Here if he sank thankfully. The picture was one of love and bravery, with the usual fair heroine and handsome hero and hectic-browed villain. As they watched he slipped an arm around her slender waist and drew her to him.

She struggled for a moment, much to his surprise. Then she yielded, and he felt her gentle cheek to his manly chest.

Five minutes later the picture ended, and the lights went up. Then he understood—he was embracing the wrong girl.—London Answers.

Let us end mistakes in shaving

Hot towels and finger-rubbing no longer necessary

LET us all know the present day facts on shaving. There is no need to use hot towels to soften the beard. Nor to rub the beard. Nor to submit our face to a lather that dries quickly on the face and irritates the skin.

Once such things were considered a necessary evil in shaving. But they are without reason today. For science has found a better way of preparing the beard for the razor. An easier way. And a quicker way.

It lies in the use of Palmolive Shaving Cream. And to show what a big difference it makes in shaving, we are sending a trial tube free to every man who requests it.

Quick action

The secret of softening the beard is in emulsifying the oil that coats every hair of the beard. And Palmolive lather instantly emulsifies that oil. Then the beard—a horny substance—quickly absorbs water. This makes the hair easy to cut. With the ordinary cream or soap you have to supply hot towels or rub the beard before it can be thoroughly moistened.

Lasting lather

Palmolive lather stays moist and foamy on the face for 10 minutes. You don't have to relather as you do with the ordinary cream.

This lather is also a lotion. It contains palm and olive oils. Thus your skin is soothed and refreshed in shaving. You need no other lotion.

A new kind of a shave

You'll change your whole conception of shaving when you use Palmolive. And this we urge you to do at once. A trial tube will be sent free. There is no charge of any kind, not even for postage. So be sure to take advantage of this opportunity. Mail the coupon now.

METHODISTS MET IN CONFERENCE

Tuesday afternoon a group meeting of the Kingston and Saugerties groups was held in Trinity M. E. Church. The Kingston group includes the three local churches, the St. James, Clinton Avenue and Trinity M. E., the East Kingston Church, Connelly Church and the church at Port Ewen. The Saugerties group includes about the same number of churches. The meeting was an educational one for the purpose of explaining the work being done in the centenary movement of the Methodist Church. The second and third quarterly conferences of the churches were also held that afternoon and dinner was served the delegates at 6 o'clock.

An evening session was held in the church at which time Dr. E. A. Dent of New York city, who had spoken at the afternoon session, was again the speaker and gave a resume of the work and what was being done with the centenary money.

Let's Go to Durham.

In the county of Durham, England, it is an old custom to give fruit cake and cheese to the first person met on the way to the church by a christening party.

This little Scotch lassie is crossing a river in Glenesk, Scotland, on a wire "bridge" constructed by her daddy. The "bridge" is a short cut to the mainland, and in this manner the whole family travels across the river. The game bag conveyance runs on a trolley.

Expressions That Are Sectional.

"I guess" betrays the New Englander as unerringly as the "I reckon" of the southerner. "Rugged" in the sense of vigorous and robust is purely colloquial in New England, and in Rhode Island its meaning is extended beyond its application to the health of an individual. It is used here negatively to indicate weakness. "What kinder keerds be ye holdin', Si?" inquired a player of his partner. "Wall, Josh, they hain't very rugged," was the reply.

EXCHANGE FOURTH LIBERTY BONDS

Well over a million holders of 4¼ per cent Fourth Liberty Loan bonds in this Federal Reserve District will be entitled to collect their semi-annual interest which falls due Friday, October 15.

With the cashing of this interest the last coupons on the temporary Fourth Liberty Loan 4¼s will have been paid Therefore, as soon as it is announced that the permanent bonds of this issue will be ready the temporary bonds should be exchanged for them because the permanent bonds will have all future interest coupons to maturity attached The permanent bonds of the First Liberty Loans Second Converted 4¼s are also not quite ready to be delivered in exchange for the temporary bonds of that issue, but Federal Reserve Bank officials here strongly urge holders of all other issues of temporary Liberty bonds to exchange them at once and secure the permanent bonds to which they are entitled Until the holders do so they will be unable to collect the interest after the due date of the last coupon on their present bonds.

Almost any bank will cash the Fourth 4¼ per cent interest coupons due on Friday next and will also make the exchange for holders of those temporary Libertys which are now exchangeable for the permanent bonds

Early Treatment the Thing.

Untreated cancer means a mortality of exactly 100 per cent. No authentic exception has ever been known, or ever is likely to be known. But in its early stages, cancer is curable and has been cured thousands of times by a thorough operation that removes every particle of diseased tissue. Every case of cancer in a civilized country comes to the doctor some time. Why not come early enough to be saved?—Chicago Journal.

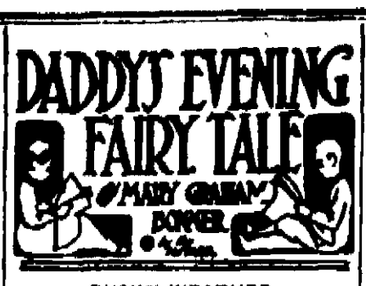
DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE



DUCKS' WEATHER.

"Quack, quack," said Mrs. Duck.

"Quack," said Sir David Duck.

"Grunt, grunt," said Sir Benjamin Bacon and Sir Percival Pork said,

"Grunt, grunt," as they both looked at the ducks who were walking past the Pig Pen Palace or Mud Yard, as it was also sometimes called.

"Cackle, cackle," said Miss Fidgety Fashionable Hen in a very proud voice.

"Cackle, cackle," said Miss Gray Hen in a very proud voice.

"Hello, cock-a-doodle-do," said Mr. Red Crown Rooster, and his cousin Red Top, said,

"Cock-a-doodle-do, how are you?"

"We're pretty well, quack, quack," said Mrs. Duck.

"So are we," the other barnyard animals said.

"Do you know that we are very proud, quack, quack," said Sir David Duck, "for we have something of which to be very proud."

"Yes, quack, quack, we have, indeed," said Mrs. Duck.

"Quack, quack, quack," said the little ducklings. "We have something of which we cannot help but be proud. It seems that it has been something of which the family have been proud for years and years, and that still we can be proud of it. In fact, we heard it only today which made us know that still it is our pride."

"What in the world are you talking about, grunt, grunt," said Sir Benjamin Bacon from his pen. He was a cousin of Brother Bacon, but he was a good deal more snobbish and belonged to a nobler family of pigs than Brother Bacon did.

"Yes, what in the world are you talking of?" asked Sir Percival Pork, who, too, was a cousin of Grandfather

"What in the World?"

Pork Pig. They called their home the Pig Pen Palace or Mud Yard and put on more airs than their cousin pigs you see "Grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal, I would like to know," he said.

"Cock-a-doodle-do, so would I," said Red Top.

"Cackle, cackle, I would like to know what you mean," said Miss Gray Hen

"Pray, tell us what you are so proud about, cackle, cackle," said Miss Fidgety Fashionable Hen

"I will tell you," said Sir David Duck, "unless Mrs. Duck or the Duck Bugs would prefer to tell the story"

"We're willing to let you tell it," said Mrs Duck.

"Quite willing," said the docklings

"Well," said Sir David Duck, "years and years ago whenever it rained hard, folks used to say, 'Fine weather for ducks!' That was such a compliment to us, for it showed us that there was weather just for us and that folks were willing to have the rain so that it could be fine for us. Of course, we like the rain and as the rain is fine weather for us. We adore the water, and rain is water."

"Well, the family has always been proud to think that there was such a thing as special weather for ducks, and that when people went out on such days they knew perfectly well that the weather was our weather and not theirs. We've been a little bit afraid that perhaps things might have changed One never can tell. But today we heard a great many people who are visiting the farm (because there is a tea party being given there), and they all said the same thing.

"Well, now we know that we're still the creatures who have the rainy days made especially for them. Yes, we're very proud."

"You don't suppose," said Red Top, "that folks say that because they can't stand the rainy weather, and they think that it is only fit for ducks?"

"I don't suppose that," said Sir David, "for I feel they mean that such weather is our special weather, owned by us."

Hopefulness Is Not Blindness.

Hopefulness is not necessarily opposed to common sense. The girl who insists that she will pass her examination without difficulty, while she goes on day after day neglecting her studies, is not hopeful so much as foolhardy.

Hopefulness should be cultivated but it is not necessary to shut one's eyes to the facts. Hopefulness is an advantage while blindness is a misfortune Learn to see things as they are, and to take the optimistic view. Do not deliberately blind yourself to the real estate of affairs and call it being hopeful.—Girls' Companion.

A FEW VEGETABLE DISHES

A steam cooker or, lacking that, an old fashioned steamer which fits the top of a kettle is an invaluable utensil for cooking Vegetables which are steamed contain all the valuable mineral salts, the soluble nutritive materials which are thrown away when the vegetables are boiled and the water thrown away. It takes about a third longer to steam vegetables, but it takes little fuel to keep the steamer in operation when once started. A whole dinner from vegetables to meat, fish and dessert, may be cooked together.

Summer Squash en Casserole.—Take two and one half cupfuls of cooked squash, add three-fourths of a cupful of thick, stewed tomatoes, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one tablespoonful of grated onion, one-half cupful of chopped meat, fish or nuts, mix well and cover with three-fourths cupful of buttered crumbs. Bake in a hot oven until well browned. Egg plant or carrots may be served in this dish in place of squash.

Roast Beef With Mexican Sauce.—Reheat cold roast beef cut in thin slices in the following sauce: Cook one onion finely chopped in two tablespoonfuls of butter, five minutes Add one red and one green pepper chopped, one clove of garlic also chopped, and two tomatoes cut in pieces. Cook fifteen minutes. Add one teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, one-fourth teaspoonful of celery salt and salt to taste.

Tomatoes and Onions.—Take one quart of tomatoes and one quart of onions sliced. Stew the onions until about half done in as little water as possible, then add the tomatoes. Cook until tender. Add a liberal amount of olive oil or butter, season to taste with salt, and thicken with a little flour stirred with cream.

Eggs aux Tomatoes.—Put a half pint of tomato pulp well seasoned into a well-buttered baking dish. Add a tablespoonful of butter, set into a hot oven for ten minutes then remove and add four eggs, added carefully to poach. Cook from three to four minutes and serve from the dish.

HAD QUEER MENTAL STREAK

Stories Told of Oliver Cromwell Would Lead One to Doubt His Complete Sanity.

If Oliver Cromwell had lived in these days a committee of alienists doubtless would have investigated his sanity before now. For the Protector had a most abnormal streak in his mental make-up. Fancy a man that could sign the death warrant of a king and then turn and spatter the ink from his pen into the face of a friend. In his youth taverns were the chief resort of Cromwell. His rude and boisterous behavior early estranged him from his equals and he came to associate with a class beneath him. For he could brook no interference or contradiction. The matter of the score at the inns where he caroused concerned him very little; the bills frequently went unpaid and he became extremely unpopular with the alewives of Huntingdon who, when they saw him coming, would lock the doors to keep out the noisy bully. So Oliver turned out to be a wild and dissipated youth. The same incorrigible spirit ran throughout his life. It led him to encourage his soldiers to play practical jokes upon each other, such as putting hot coals in the other fellow's boots. At the marriage of his daughter in 1657 to Rich, the Protector threw sack posset among the ladies to soil their rich clothes, which they took as a favor from him, strange as it may seem. And he put sticky candy upon the chairs where his guests were to sit, and pulled off his son-in-law's peruke, pretended to throw it into the fire, and ended by sitting on it.—Philadelphia Record.

LAWS OF NEW YORK.—By Authority.

CHAP. 928.

ARTICLE 7
BONDS AND UNDERTAKINGS; SURETIES

Section 105. Approval and recording of bonds and undertakings.
106. Deposit of securities to reduce penalty of bond.
107. When new bond or new sureties may be required.
108. How principal may be required to give a new bond.
109. Sureties may apply to be released, as to future breaches.
110. Release of old sureties on the giving of new.
111. Principal may substitute new bond of surety after judicial settlement.
112. Sureties liable for money received in another capacity.
113. When bond may be prosecuted.
114. Successor may prosecute official bond.
115. Action on official bond, when no successor appointed.
116. Discharge of bond or undertaking given on appeal, or for the performance of an act.
117. Application of this article to executors heretofore appointed.

§ 105. Approval and recording of bonds and undertakings. Except as otherwise provided in this act, the provisions of law relating to bonds and undertakings in a civil action in the supreme court shall apply to bonds or undertakings in the surrogate's court. All bonds and undertakings to be filed in the surrogate's court must be approved by the surrogate or acting surrogate, except that in counties containing a city of the first or second class or a part of such city, the surrogate or surrogates may, in writing, designate a clerk in the office to approve all or any class of bonds or undertakings, and when approved such bonds and undertakings must be recorded. The approval must be indorsed on the bond or undertaking.

§ 106. Deposit of securities to reduce penalty of bond. In a case where a bond, or new sureties on a bond, may be required by a surrogate from an executor, administrator, guardian, or testamentary trustee, if the value of the estate or fund is so great that the surrogate deems it inexpedient to require security in the full amount prescribed by law, he may direct that any securities for the payment of money, belonging to the estate or fund, be delivered to the county treasurer, or chamberlain, or be deposited subject to the order of the executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee, countersigned by the surrogate, with a trust company, bank or safe deposit company. After such a deposit has been made, the surrogate may fix the amount of the bond with respect to the value of the remainder only of the estate or fund. A security thus deposited shall not be withdrawn from the custody of the depository, and no person other than the county treasurer, chamberlain or the proper officer of the depository, shall receive or collect any of the principal or interest secured thereby, without the special order of the surrogate. Such an order can be made in favor of such executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee, only where an additional bond has been given by him, or upon proof that the estate or fund has been so reduced, by payments or otherwise, that the penalty of the bond originally given will be sufficient in amount to satisfy the provisions of law relating to the penalty thereof, if the security so withdrawn is also reckoned in the estate or fund.

§ 107. When new bond or new sureties may be required. Any person interested in an estate or fund, may present to the surrogate's court a petition, setting forth that a surety on a bond, taken as prescribed in this act, is insufficient, or has removed, or is about to remove, from the state, or is dead, or that the bond is inadequate in amount; and praying that the principal in the bond may be required to give a new bond, in a larger penalty, or new or additional sureties, as the case requires, or in default thereof, that he may be removed from his office, and that letters issued to him may be revoked. Where the bond so taken is that of a guardian, the petition may also be presented by any relative of the infant. When the bond is that of an executor, or administrator, the petition may also be presented by any creditor of the decedent. If it appears to the surrogate that there is reason to believe that the allegations of the petition are true, a citation shall issue to the principal on the bond to show cause why the prayer of the petition should not be granted.

§ 108. How principal may be required to give a new bond. Upon the return of a citation, issued as prescribed in the last section, the surrogate must hear the allegations and proofs of the parties; and if the allegations, or any of them, are found to be valid, he must make an order, requiring the principal on the bond to give new or additional sureties, or a new bond in a larger penalty, as the case requires, within such reasonable time, not exceeding twenty days, as the surrogate fixes, and directing that, in default thereof, he be removed or his letters be revoked.

§ 109. Sureties may apply to be released as to future breaches. Any or all of the sureties on a bond taken as prescribed in this act, may present a petition to the surrogate's court praying to be released from responsibility on account of any future breach of the condition of the bond, and that the principal on the bond be required to give new sureties and to render and settle his account, and that a citation issue to said principal to show cause why the application should not be granted.

§ 110. Release of old sureties on the giving of new. Upon the return of the citation issued as prescribed in the last section, if the principal on the bond does not file a new bond in the usual form with new sureties to the satisfaction of the surrogate, the surrogate must make an order requiring said principal to file such new bond within such reasonable time, not exceeding twenty days, as the surrogate fixes. Should the principal file such new bond upon the return of such citation or within the time fixed by such order the surrogate must thereupon make a decree releasing the petitioner from liability upon the bond for any subsequent act or default of the principal, and requiring the principal to render and settle his account to and including the date of such decree, and to file such account within a time fixed, not exceeding twenty days from such date; otherwise he must make a decree removing such principal or revoking his letters.

§ 111. Principal may substitute new bond or surety after judicial settlement. Whenever there is pending in surrogate's court a proceeding for the intermediate judicial settlement of the account of an executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee who has been required to file an official bond, such principal may ask in such proceeding, upon good cause shown, for leave to file a new bond or a new surety. If the surrogate grants such application he shall thereupon fix the penalty of the new bond, or the amount in which the new surety must justify, and upon the filing and approval of such new bond, or of the undertaking of the new surety, the surrogate may provide in the decree of judicial settlement that the former bond or surety be discharged from and after the date of such decree from all liability, except upon appeal therefrom, as to all matters embraced in said account and decree.

§ 112. Sureties liable for money received in another capacity. A person to whom letters are issued is liable for money or other personal property of the estate which was in his hands, or under his control, when his letters were issued, in whatever capacity it was received by him, or came under his control. Where it was received by him, or came under his control, by virtue of letters previously issued to him in the same or another capacity, an action to recover the money, or damages for failure to deliver the property, may be maintained upon both official bonds; but, as between the sureties upon the official bond given upon the issue of the prior letters, and those upon the official bond given upon the issue of the subsequent letters, the latter are liable over to the former.

§ 113. When bond may be prosecuted. Where an execution, issued upon a surrogate's decree, against the property of an executor, administrator, testamentary trustee, or guardian, has been returned wholly or partly unsatisfied, an action to recover the sum remaining uncollected may be maintained upon his official bond by and in the name of the person in whose favor the decree was made. If the principal debtor is a resident of the state, the execution must have been issued to the county where he resides.

§ 114. Successor may prosecute official bond. Where a successor of an executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee has been appointed, he may maintain an action upon his predecessor's official bond, in which he may recover any money, or the full value of any other property, received by the principal in the bond, and not duly administered by him; and to the full extent of any injury sustained by the estate of the decedent, infant or beneficiary as the case may be, by any act or omission of the principal.

The money recovered in such an action shall be part of the estate or fund in the hands of the successor and must be distributed or otherwise disposed of accordingly; except that a recovery for an act or omission, respecting a right of action, or other property, appropriated by law for the benefit of the husband, wife, family, or next of kin of a decedent, or disposed of by a will for the benefit of any person is for the benefit of the person or persons so entitled thereto.

A decree against such decedent's executor, or administrator, rendered upon an accounting under section two hundred and fifty-seven of this act, has the same effect as if an execution issued upon a surrogate's decree against the property of decedent had been returned unsatisfied during decedent's life time.

§ 115. Action on official bond when no successor appointed. Where an executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee has been removed, or his letters have been revoked, and no successor is appointed, any person aggrieved may, upon obtaining an order from the surrogate granting him leave so to do, maintain an action upon the official bond of the person so removed or whose letters have been revoked in behalf of himself and all others interested; in which the plaintiff may recover any money, or the full value of any other property, received by the principal on the bond, and not duly administered by him, and to the full extent of any injury sustained by the estate of the decedent, infant or beneficiary by any act or omission of the principal. The money recovered in such an action must be paid, by the sheriff or other officer who collects it, into the surrogate's court to be paid to a successor when appointed and distributed to the persons entitled thereto.

§ 116. Discharge of bond or undertaking given on appeal, or for the performance of an act. Any party to a bond or undertaking given upon appeal, or to insure the performance of an act by himself or another, as to which no accounting is required by law for its discharge, may apply to the surrogate's court, upon notice to all parties interested in the subject-matter, or in the proceeding in which the bond or undertaking was given, for the discharge of the obligation or liability, in whole or in part. The court may thereupon by order certify that the whole obligation or liability on the bond or undertaking is discharged, or may direct that such obligation or liability be discharged in such amount as may be just, and that the bond or undertaking shall thereafter have the same force and effect as if given in terms for the remaining obligation or liability.

§ 117. Application of this article to executors heretofore appointed. The provisions of this article apply to an executor, administrator, or guardian, to whom letters have been issued, and to a testamentary trustee whose trust has been created before this act takes effect; except that it does not affect, in any manner, the liability of the sureties on a bond executed before this act takes effect.

ARTICLE 8
GRANT OF ADMINISTRATION; ADMINISTRATORS

Section 118. Who entitled to letters of administration.
119. Application for letters.
120. Citation; proceedings upon return thereof.
121. Administrator's bond.
122. Limited letters may be issued; bond.
123. County treasurer appointed administrator to qualify and have fees.
124. Public administrator of Kings county.
125. Public administrator of Erie county.
126. When and how temporary administrators may be appointed.
127. General powers of temporary administrator.
128. Power as to requiring creditors to present claims.
129. Power as to paying debts.
130. Power as to real property.
131. Special powers of temporary administrator of absentee; may provide for family.
132. Notices required by this article; how given.
133. Letters of administration with will annexed; when and to whom granted.
134. Renunciation or exclusion of persons having prior right.
135. New executor or administrator with the will annexed qualified.
136. Appointment of administrator de bonis non.

§ 118. Who entitled to letters of administration. Administration in case of intestacy must be granted to the persons entitled to take or share in the personal property, who are competent and will accept the same, in the following order:
1. To the surviving husband or wife.
2. To the children.
3. To the grandchildren.
4. To the father.
5. To the mother.
6. To the brothers.
7. To the sisters.
8. To any other next of kin entitled to share in the distribution of the estate, preference being given to the person entitled to take the largest share in the estate, except as hereinafter provided.

If a person entitled to take all the personal estate is an infant, or an incompetent, or has died, his guardian, committee or legal representative, as the case may be, shall have a prior right to letters in his place and stead.

If all the persons entitled to take the personal estate are infants, or adjudged incompetents, or, if no adult or competent person entitled to take or share in the estate will accept the same, letters may be granted to the general guardian of an infant or to the committee of an incompetent, in the place of such infant or incompetent.

If no person entitled to take or share in the estate will accept the same or an appointment is not made by consent as hereinafter provided, then administration shall be granted as follows:
a. To the public administrator.
b. To the county treasurer of the county, or to the petitioner, in the discretion of the surrogate.
c. To any other person or persons.

If several persons have an equal right to administration, they must be preferred in the following order: First, men to women; second, relatives of the whole blood to those of the half blood; third, unmarried women to married. If there are several persons equally entitled to administration, the surrogate may grant letters to one or more of such persons. Administration may be granted to one or more competent persons, jointly with, and upon the application of, a person entitled; or to a competent person or persons not entitled, upon the consent of all of the persons entitled to take or share in the estate who are within this state and competent, which consent must be in writing, and filed in the office of the surrogate. For the purposes of this section a trust company or other corporation authorized to act as administrator shall be included in the word "person."

§ 119. Application for letters. A creditor, or person interested in the estate of an intestate, or interested in an action brought or about to be brought in which the intestate, if living, would be a proper party, may present to the surrogate's court having jurisdiction, a petition, praying for a decree awarding letters of administration, either to him, or to another person. A citation shall not be issued, and a decree shall not be made where a citation is not necessary, until the petitioner shows to the satisfaction of the surrogate, the existence of all the jurisdictional facts, and particularly that the decedent left no will.

§ 120. Citation; proceedings upon return thereof. Every person, being a resident of the state and competent, who has a right to administration prior or equal to that of the petitioner and who has not renounced, must be cited upon a petition for letters of administration; and where the petitioner is not entitled to share in the distribution of the estate there must also be cited all resident infants and adjudged incompetents who are so entitled. The surrogate may, in his discretion, issue a citation to non-residents, or those who have renounced, or to any or all other persons interested in the estate. Where it is not necessary to cite any person, a decree, granting letters may be made on presentation of the petition. Any person who has a right to administration, prior or equal to that of the petitioner, may renounce his right by a written instrument, acknowledged, or proved, and duly certified which must be filed in the surrogate's office; except that a public administrator or county treasurer may not renounce his right and may only be excused from acting as such upon his motion duly made and upon an order made and entered thereupon by the surrogate.

§ 121. Administrator's bond. Before letters are issued to an administrator he must file his official oath, and execute to the people of the state, and file with the surrogate, the joint and several bond of himself and two or more sureties, in a penalty fixed by the surrogate, not less than the value of the personal property of which the decedent died possessed and of the probable amount to be recovered by reason of any right of action, granted to an executor or administrator, by special provision of law, or by reason of a cause of action which existed in behalf of the decedent; except that where the person or persons about to be appointed is or are entitled to the whole estate, the surrogate may dispense with a bond or fix the penalty at such sum as will adequately protect the rights of all creditors. The sum to be fixed as the amount of the penalty must be ascertained by the surrogate, by the examination on oath of the applicant or any other person, or otherwise, as the surrogate thinks proper. The bond must be conditioned that the administrator will faithfully discharge the trust reposed in him as such and obey all lawful decrees and orders of the surrogate's court touching the administration of the estate committed to him.

In cases where the husband or wife and all the next of kin of the decedent or all the persons entitled to share in the estate consent, the penalty of the bond need not exceed double the amount of the claims of the creditors, against the estate, presented to the surrogate, pursuant to a notice to be published once a week for four weeks in such newspaper or newspapers as the surrogate shall direct, reciting an intention to apply for letters under this provision, and notifying creditors to present their claims to the surrogate's court on or before a day to be fixed in such notice, which shall be at least thirty days after the first publication thereof; but no bond so given shall be for less than five thousand dollars; and such bond may be increased by order of the surrogate for cause shown. Pending such application, no temporary administrator shall be appointed, except on petition of such next of kin.

§ 122. Limited letters may be issued; bond. Where a right of action is granted to an executor or administrator by special provision of law, or it is alleged that a cause of action existed in behalf of the decedent, and it appears to be impracticable to give a bond sufficient to cover the probable amount to be recovered in the case of an executor, or such probable recovery and the existing personal estate in the case of an administrator, the surrogate may dispense with a bond, or fix the penalty at such sum as he shall deem sufficient, and issue letters which as to such cause of action shall be limited to the prosecution thereof, and restraining the executor or administrator from compromise of the action or the enforcement of any judgment recovered therein until the further order of the surrogate made upon filing satisfactory security.

§ 123. County treasurer appointed administrator to qualify and have fees. A county treasurer appointed administrator of an estate shall qualify in the manner prescribed in section one hundred and twenty-one* shall be vested with all the powers and rights of other administrators and be subject to the same duties and obligations; and shall be allowed the same fees for his services as are now allowed by law to administrators, which fees shall be in addition to the salary and fees now allowed by law to such county treasurer. Such treasurer may employ an attorney to act for him as such administrator other than the one, if any, appointed to act as the county attorney or the official attorney of such treasurer.

§ 124. Public administrator of Kings county. The surrogate of the county of Kings shall, on or before the nineteenth day of October, nineteen hundred and eleven, and every five years thereafter, except as hereinafter provided, appoint a suitable person as public administrator of said county to hold office for the term of five years unless sooner removed for cause, the said term beginning on the nineteenth day of October, nineteen hundred and eleven. In case of a vacancy in said office by reason of death, resignation or otherwise said surrogate shall fill the same by appointing a suitable person as public administrator for the full term of five years from the date of such appointment and qualification. Before entering upon the performance of the duties of his office the person so appointed must take and subscribe before the county clerk, or a justice of the supreme court, the constitutional oath of office, and execute a bond with sureties to be approved by a justice of the supreme court, to the county of Kings, in a penal sum of fifty thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful discharge of all the duties of his office, and that he will fully and correctly account for and pay over all moneys and property that may come into his hands as such public administrator, according to law, which bond must be filed with the clerk of the county. He shall be entitled to retain from all moneys or property of any intestate that come into his hands after deducting all actual and necessary expenses the same commissions as are now allowed by law to executors or administrators, and he shall receive a salary for his services to be fixed by the board of estimate and apportionment of the city of New York upon the recommendation of the surrogate of the county of Kings, the same to be raised and paid each year in the same manner as are other county charges. The public administrator shall not receive to his own use any fees or emoluments in addition to his salary, and he shall pay into the treasury of the city of New York all commissions and costs received by him from any source whatever; such payments shall be made monthly and shall be accompanied by a sworn statement in such form as the comptroller of the city of New York shall prescribe, showing in detail the costs and commissions received and allowed to him. A suitable office for said public administrator shall be provided for him in one of the county buildings in the county of Kings. The surrogate shall also appoint a counsel and a clerk to said public administrator, their salaries to be fixed by the board of estimate and apportionment of the city of New York upon the recommendation of said surrogate and to be raised and paid each year in the same manner as are other county charges. He shall have the prior right and authority to collect, take charge of and administer upon the goods, chattels, personal property and debts of persons dying intestate, and for that purpose to maintain suits as such public administrator as any executor or administrator might by law in the following cases:

1. Whenever such person dies leaving any assets or effects in the county of Kings, and there is no widow, husband or next of kin entitled to a distributive share in the estate of such intestate, entitled, competent or willing to take out letters of administration on such estate.

2. Whenever assets or effects of any person dying intestate, after his death, come into the county of Kings and there is no such person entitled, competent or willing to take administration of the estate. In such cases intestacy is presumed until a will is proved and letters testamentary issued thereon. All provisions of law conferring jurisdiction, authority or power on, or otherwise relating to the office of public administrator of the city of New York and to the office of public administrator in the several counties of the state, so far as applicable apply to and are conferred on the office hereby created. The surrogate of the county of Kings, in cases where now authorized by law to issue letters of temporary administration, may in his discretion issue letters of temporary administration to such public administrator without further security than required by this section.

§ 125. Public administrator of Erie county. The surrogate of the county of Erie, shall, within ten days after September first, nineteen hundred and fourteen, and every five years thereafter, except as hereinafter provided, appoint a suitable person as public administrator of and for said county, to take office immediately, and to hold office for the term of five years from the first day of January succeeding his appointment, unless sooner removed for cause.

In case of a vacancy in said office by reason of death, resignation or otherwise, said surrogate shall fill the same by appointing a suitable person as public administrator, to take office immediately upon his appointment and qualification, and hold for the term of five years from the first day of January succeeding his appointment, unless sooner removed for cause.

Before entering upon the performance of the duties of his office, the person so appointed shall take and subscribe before the county clerk or a justice of the supreme court, the constitutional oath of office, and execute a bond, with sufficient sureties to be approved by a justice of the supreme court, to the county of Erie, in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office, and that he will fully and correctly account for and pay all moneys and property that may come into his hands as such public administrator, according to law, which bond shall be filed with the clerk of said county.

Said public administrator shall be entitled to retain from all moneys or property that come into his hands, after deducting all actual and necessary expenses, the same commissions as are now allowed by law to executors or administrators, and all provisions of law conferring jurisdiction, authority or power on, or otherwise relating to, the office of public administrator of the city of New York, and to the office of public administrator of the county of Kings, and in the several counties of the state apply to and are conferred on the office hereby created.

The surrogate of the county of Erie, where now authorized by law to issue letters of temporary administration, may, in his discretion, issue letters of temporary administration to such public administrator, without further security than required by this section.

§ 126. When and how temporary administrators may be appointed. On the application of a creditor, or a person interested in the estate, the surrogate may, in his discretion, issue to one or more persons letters of temporary administration, in either of the following cases:

1. When for any cause, delay necessarily occurs in the granting of letters testamentary or letters of administration, or in probating a will.

An appointment of a temporary administrator, in a case specified in this subdivision must be made by an order, if a proceeding for grant of letters of administration or probate of a will is then pending. At least ten days' notice of the application for such an order must be given to each party to the proceeding who has appeared, unless the surrogate is satisfied by proof that the safety of the estate requires the notice to be shortened, in which case he may shorten the time of service to not less than two days. If no proceeding is pending, application shall be by petition and a citation shall issue in the usual manner directed to the persons entitled to letters of administration in a case where no will is known to exist; or to the executor or executors, trustee or trustees if any, and such legatees and devisees as the surrogate may direct to be cited, in cases where a will has been filed.

2. Where a person of whose estate the surrogate would have jurisdiction, if he were shown to be dead, disappears or is missing, so that, after diligent search, his abode cannot be ascertained, and under circumstances which afford reasonable ground to believe either that he is dead, or that he has become a lunatic, or that he has been secreted, confined, or otherwise unlawfully made away with; and the appointment of a temporary administrator is necessary for the protection of his property, and the rights of creditors or of those who will be interested in the estate, if it is found that he is dead.

Application for such an appointment, in a case specified in this subdivision must be made by petition, in like manner as where an application is made for administration in case of intestacy; and the proceedings are the same as prescribed in this act relating to such last-mentioned application.

Such an application for the appointment of a temporary administrator in either case may also be made, with like effect, and in like manner, as if made by a creditor, by the county treasurer of the county where the person whose estate is in question last resided; or, if he was not a resident of the state, of the county where any of his property, real or personal, is situated. A temporary administrator must qualify as prescribed in section one hundred and twenty-one of this act with respect to an administrator-in-chief.

§ 127. General powers of temporary administrator. A temporary administrator, appointed as prescribed in this article, has authority to take into his possession personal property, to secure and preserve it, and to collect choses in action; and, for either of these purposes, or for the purpose of determining the title to personal property in his possession, he may maintain any action or special proceeding. An action may be maintained against him, by leave of the surrogate, upon a debt of the decedent, or of the absentee whom he represents, or upon any cause of action to which the decedent or absentee would have been a party in like manner and with like effect as if he were an administrator-in-chief. The surrogate may, by an order made upon at least ten days' notice to all the parties who have appeared in the special proceeding, authorize the temporary administrator to sell, after appraisal, such personal property, specifying it, of the decedent, or of the absentee whom he represents, as it appears to be necessary to sell, for the benefit of the estate, or, if it appears that the safety of the estate requires the notice to be shortened, the surrogate may shorten the notice to not less than two days. The surrogate may also, by order, authorize him to pay funeral expenses, or any expenses of the administration of his trust, or [illegible] in administration; and he may also direct the payment of a legacy or other pecuniary provision under a will or a distributive share or just proportionate part thereof, according to sections two hundred and seventeen, two hundred and eighteen of this act as though he were an executor or administrator.

§ 128. Power as to requiring creditors to present claims. A temporary administrator, appointed upon the estate of either a decedent or an absentee, has the same power as an administrator-in-chief to publish a notice requiring creditors of the decedent or absentee to exhibit their demands to him. The publication thereof has the same effect, with respect to the temporary administrator, and also an executor or administrator, subsequently appointed upon the same estate, as if the temporary administrator were the executor or an administrator-in-chief, and the person to whom the subsequent letters are issued were his successor.

§ 129. Power as to paying debts. At any time after the completion of the publication of the notice to creditors by a temporary administrator, the surrogate may: 1. Prior to an accounting as provided in subdivision two, upon proof, to his satisfaction, that the assets exceed the debts, make an order, permitting the temporary administrator to pay the whole or any part of a debt, due to a creditor, of the decedent or absentee; or, upon the petition of a creditor, a citation may issue to the temporary administrator, requiring him to show cause why he should not pay the petitioner's debt; or

2. Upon the petition of any creditor who shall have presented and established his claim or upon the application of the temporary administrator, direct an accounting by such administrator and upon the judicial settlement of his account may direct the payment of the expenses of administration and the ratable distribution of the remaining assets in his hands applicable to the payment of the debts in payment upon the claims presented and established as valid claims against said decedent or absentee, and the payment into court or the retention by the said temporary administrator of whatever may remain of the assets of the personal estate.

When a petition is presented in either of the cases above mentioned, the proceedings are, in all respects, the same as where similar proceedings are instituted by or against an executor or administrator, as prescribed in this act.

§ 130. Power as to real property. When a temporary administrator is appointed and a proceeding is pending for the probate of a will of real property, or there is a delay in the granting of letters testamentary or administration on such a will or in the qualification of a trustee named therein, the surrogate may, by the order appointing him, or by a subsequent order, confer upon him authority to take possession of real property, in the same or another county, which is affected by the will, and to receive the rents and profits thereof or to do any other act with respect thereto, which is, in the surrogate's opinion, necessary for the execution of the will, or the preservation or benefit of the real property. For either of these purposes, he may maintain or defend any action or special proceeding. The surrogate may, by an order, confer upon him authority to mortgage, lease or sell any or all of the real property, for the purposes specified in article thirteen of this act under such circumstances and restrictions, in such manner, and upon such terms and conditions as are specified in said article.

§ 131. Special powers of temporary administrator of absentee; may provide for family. A temporary administrator, appointed upon the estate of an absentee, has all the powers and authority enumerated in the last section, with respect to the real property of the absentee. His acts, done in pursuance of that authority, bind the absentee, if living, or his heir or devisee, if he be dead, in the same manner as the acts of an executor or administrator bind his successor.

Upon proof, satisfactory to the surrogate, that the wife or any infant child of an absentee upon whose estate a temporary administrator has been appointed, is in such circumstances as to require provision to be made out of the estate for his or her maintenance, clothing, or education, the surrogate may make an order, directing the temporary administrator to make such provision therefor as the surrogate deems proper, out of any personal property in his hands, not needed for the payment of debts.

§ 132. Notices required by this article, how given. A notice required to be given, as prescribed in this article, to a party other than the temporary administrator, must be served upon the attorney of the party to whom notice is to be given; or, if he has not appeared by an attorney, upon the party, in like manner as a notice may be served upon an attorney in a civil action, brought in the supreme court. But where the attorney or party to be served does not reside in the surrogate's county; or where the attorney for a party has died, and no other appearance for that party has been filed in the surrogate's office; the surrogate may, by order, dispense with notice to that party; or may require notice to be given to him in any manner which he thinks proper.

§ 133. Letters of administration with will annexed; when and to whom granted. If no person is named as executor in the will, or selected by virtue of a power contained therein; or if, at any time there is no executor, or administrator with the will annexed, qualified to act; the surrogate must, upon the application of a creditor of the decedent, or a person interested in the estate of the decedent, or having a lien upon any real property upon which the decedent's estate has a lien, and upon such notice to the other creditors and persons interested in the estate as the surrogate deems proper, issue letters of administration with the will annexed, as follows:

1. To an executor or administrator of a sole legatee and devisee named in a will or to the executor or administrator of a sole residuary legatee and devisee named in a will.

2. To one or more of the residuary legatees, who are qualified to act as administrators. A corporation which is a residuary legatee shall be qualified to act as such administrator, although not specially authorized by its charter or any provision of law.

3. If there is no such residuary legatee or none who will accept, then to one or more of the principal or specified legatees so qualified.

4. If there is no such legatee or none who will accept, then to the husband, or wife, or to one or more of the next of kin, or to one or more of the heirs or devisees, so qualified.

If any of the above persons who would otherwise be entitled to letters is an infant or an adjudged incompetent, administration may be granted to his guardian or committee as the case may be, unless there is an adult or competent person equally entitled who will accept the same.

5. If there is no qualified person, entitled under the foregoing subdivisions, who will accept, then to the public administrator, and if there be none for the county, to the treasurer of the county or to the petitioner, in the discretion of the surrogate, and if neither will accept, to any creditor or competent person designated by the surrogate.

Except as to the right of priority as provided in this section, the provisions of section one hundred and eighteen of this act apply to an application for letters of administration with the will annexed.

§ 134. Renunciation or exclusion of persons having prior right. Where a person applies for letters of administration with the will annexed, as prescribed in the last section, and another person has a right to the administration, prior to that of the petitioner, a citation must issue accordingly unless a renunciation acknowledged or proved and duly certified of every person having such a prior right is filed. The surrogate may in his discretion issue a citation to a person equally entitled. The proceedings thereupon are the same as upon an application for administration upon the estate of an intestate.

§ 135. New executor or administrator with the will annexed qualified. An executor from whom a bond is required as prescribed in this act, or an administrator with the will annexed, must, before letters are issued to him, qualify as prescribed by law with respect to an administrator upon the estate of an intestate; and the provisions of section one hundred and twenty-one of this act, with respect to the bond to be given by the administrator of an intestate, apply to a bond given pursuant to this section; except that, in fixing the penalty thereof, the surrogate must take into consideration the value of the real property, or of the proceeds thereof, which may come to the hands of the executor or administrator, by virtue of any provision contained in the will, and also how much of the estate, if any, has already been administered.

§ 136. Appointment of administrator de bonis non. When all the administrators, to whom letters have been issued, die or become incapable, or the letters are revoked as to all of them, the surrogate must grant letters of administration de bonis non to one or more persons as their successors, in like manner as if the former letters had not been issued; and the proceedings to procure the grant of such letters are the same, and the same security shall be required, as upon an original application; except that the surrogate may, in his discretion, in case where the estate has been partially administered upon by the former representative or representatives, fix as the penalty of the bond to be given by such successor or sucessors, a sum not less than the value of the assets of the estate remaining unadministered.

ARTICLE 9
PRODUCTION, PROBATE AND CONSTRUCTION OF WILLS; EXECUTORS; ANCILLARY LETTERS; TESTAMENTARY TRUSTEES

Section 137. Petition to compel production of will.
138. Probate of wills of citizens of the United States domiciled in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.
139. Who may propound will; contents of petition.
140. Who to be cited thereupon; contents of citation.
141. Witnesses to be examined; proof required.
142. Absent witnesses to be accounted for; dispensing with testimony; commission; proof of handwriting.
143. Proof of lost or destroyed will.
144. Probate not allowed, unless surrogate satisfied.
145. Construction of will, how obtained.
146. Notice of probate to legatees and devisees.
147. Who may file objections to the probate of an alleged will; jury trial.
148. Notice to legatees and devisees of objections filed.
149. Proceedings upon jury trial of contested probate.
150. Wills to be recorded and retained; exception.
151. Will certified, or record thereof, may be read in evidence.
152. Recording wills proved elsewhere within the state.
153. Records of certain wills heretofore proved; how far evidence.
154. Revocation of letters upon proof of will.
155. When letters testamentary may be issued.
156. Supplementary letters; executors not named in letters not to act.
157. Executor failing to qualify or renounce, how excluded.
158. Renunciation by nominated executor; retraction thereof.
159. Ancillary letters upon foreign probate.
160. Upon foreign grant of administration.
161. To whom ancillary letters granted
162. Petition; citation.
163. Hearing; security.
164. Persons acting under ancillary letters must transmit assets.
165. When they may be directed to pay without transmission.
166. General powers and duties.
167. How testamentary trustee shall qualify.
168. Appointment of successor.
169. Security to be required from a trustee or executor acting as trustee.
170. Proceedings where testamentary trustee is also executor or administrator.
171. Application of this act.

§ 137. Petition to compel production of will. Whenever it shall appear by petition of any person claiming to be interested in the estate of a decedent, that there is reasonable ground to believe that any person has destroyed, retained, concealed, or is conspiring with others to destroy, retain or conceal a will or testamentary instrument of a decedent, or has any knowledge as to such facts, the court must make an order requiring the respondent to attend and be examined in the premises, and may in such order or otherwise in the proceeding require the production of any will or testamentary instrument. Service thereof must be made by delivery of a certified copy thereof to the person or persons named therein and the payment or tender to each of the sum required by law to be paid or tendered to a witness who is subpoenaed to attend a trial in surrogate's court.

§ 138. Probate of wills of citizens of the United States domiciled in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. The last will and testament of any person being a citizen of the United States, or, if female, whose father or husband previously shall have declared his intention to become such citizen, who shall have died, or hereafter shall die, while domiciled or resident within the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or any of its dependencies, which shall affect property within this state and which shall have been duly proven within such foreign jurisdiction, and there admitted to probate, shall be admitted to probate in any county of this state wherein shall be any property affected thereby upon filing in the office of the surrogate of such county, and there recording, a copy of such last will and testament, certified under the hand and seal of a consul-general of the United States resident within such foreign jurisdiction, together with the proofs of the said last will and testament, made and accepted within such foreign jurisdiction, certified in like manner. Letters testamentary on such last will and testament shall be issued to the persons named therein to be the executors and trustees, or either thereof, or to those of them who, prior to the issuance of such letters, by formal renunciation, duly acknowledged or proven, and duly certified, shall not have renounced the trust therein devolved upon them; provided, that before any such will shall be admitted to probate in any county of this state, the same proceedings shall be had in the surrogate's court of the proper county as are required by law upon the proof of the last will and testament of a resident of this state who shall have died therein; except that there need be cited upon such probate proceedings only the beneficiaries named in such will.

§ 139. Who may propound will; contents of petition. A petition for the probate of a will may be presented by:

Any person designated in the will as executor, devisee, legatee, testamentary trustee or guardian;

A creditor of the decedent, or any other person interested in the estate;

Any party to an action brought, or about to be brought, in which action the decedent, if living, would be a proper party.

Such petition in addition to the general allegations contained in section fifty-one of this act, shall describe such will and any other will of the same testator on file in the surrogate's office, and set forth the names and post-office addresses, so far as they can be obtained with due diligence, of all the devisees, legatees and beneficiaries named in said will, or in any other will so filed.

§ 140. Who to be cited thereupon; contents of citation. The following persons must be cited upon a petition, presented as prescribed in the last section.

If the will relates exclusively to real property, the husband or wife, if any, and all the heirs of the testator.

If the will relates exclusively to personal property, the husband or wife, if any, and all the next of kin of the testator.

If the will relates to both real and personal property, the husband or wife, if any, and all the heirs, and all the next of kin of the testator.

In every case, each person designated in the will as executor, testamentary trustee or guardian, and each person named as executor, testamentary trustee or guardian, or beneficiary in any other will of the same testator filed in the surrogate's office.

In addition to the general contents contained in sections fifty-three and fifty-four of this act, the citation must also set forth the name of the person by whom the will is propounded; whether the will relates exclusively to real property, or to personal property, or to both; and if the will is nuncupative, that fact.

§ 141. Witnesses to be examined; proof required. Before a written will is admitted to probate, two, at least, of the subscribing witnesses must be produced and examined, if so many are within the state, and competent and able to testify. Before a nuncupative will is admitted to probate, its execution and the tenor thereof must be proved by at least two witnesses. The proofs must be reduced to writing. Any party to the proceeding may request the oral examination of the subscribing witnesses to the will and may examine such witnesses and any other witness produced by the proponent before the surrogate, without first filing objections to the probate of such will.

§ 142. Absent witnesses to be accounted for; dispensing with testimony; commission; proof of handwriting. The death, absence from the state, or incompetency by reason of lunacy, or otherwise of a subscribing witness required to be examined as prescribed in this or the last section, or the fact that such witness cannot, with due diligence, be found within the state, or cannot be examined by reason of his physical or mental condition may be shown by affidavit or other competent evidence, and when so shown to the satisfaction of the surrogate, the surrogate may by an order entered in the minutes or recited in the decree dispense with his testimony, or in a case where such witness is absent from the state and it is shown that his testimony can be obtained with reasonable diligence, the surrogate may, in his discretion, and shall upon the demand of any party, require his testimony to be taken by commission. Where the testimony of a subscribing witness has been dispensed with as provided in this section, and one subscribing witness has been examined, the will may be admitted to probate upon the testimony of such subscribing witness alone.

If all the subscribing witnesses to a written will be dead, or incompetent by reason of lunacy or otherwise, to testify, or unable to testify, or are absent from the state and their testimony has been dispensed with as provided in this section, or if a subscribing witness has forgotten the occurrence, or testifies against the execution of the will, or was not present with the other witness at the execution of the will, the will may nevertheless be established, upon proof of the handwriting of the testator, and of the subscribing witnesses, and also of such other circumstances as would be sufficient to prove the will upon the trial of an action.

§ 143. Proof of lost or destroyed will. A lost or destroyed will can be admitted to probate in a surrogate's court, but only in case the will was in existence at the time of the testator's death, or was fraudulently destroyed in his lifetime, and its provisions are clearly and distinctly proved by at least two credible witnesses, a correct copy or draft being equivalent to one witness.

§ 144. Probate not allowed, unless surrogate satisfied. Before admitting a will to probate, the surrogate must inquire particularly into all the facts and circumstances, and must be satisfied with the genuineness of the will, and the validity of its execution.

If it appears to the surrogate that the will was duly executed; and that the testator, at the time of executing it, was in all respects competent to make a will and not under restraint; it must be admitted to probate as a will valid to pass real property, or personal property, or both, as the surrogate determines, and the petition and citation require, and must be recorded accordingly. The decree admitting it to probate must state whether the probate was or was not contested.

§ 145. Construction of will, how obtained. An executor, administrator with the will anexed, or any person interested in obtaining a determination as to the validity, construction or effect of any disposition of property contained in a will, may present to the surrogate's court in which such will was probated, a petition setting forth the facts which show his interest, the names and post-office addresses of the other parties interested, and the particular portion of such will concerning which he requests the determination of the court.

If the surrogate entertains the application, a citation shall issue to all persons interested in the question to be presented, to show cause why such determination should not be made. On the return of the citation the surrogate shall make such decree as justice requires.

If a party expressly puts in issue in a proceeding for the probate of a will the validity, construction, or effect of any disposition of property, contained in such will, the surrogate may determine the question, upon rendering a decree, after notice given in such manner as the surrogate directs to all persons interested who do not appear on such application in person or by attorney; or, unless the decree refuses to admit the will to probate, by reason of a failure to prove any of the matters specified in the preceding section, may admit the will to probate and reserve the questions so raised for future consideration and decree.

§ 146. Notice of probate to legatees and devisees. Before letters are issued, there shall be filed in the surrogate's court a written notice, entitled in the proceeding, stating the name of the testator, that his last will and testament has been offered for probate, or probated, as the case may be, and the name and post-office address of the proponent, and of each and every legatee, devisee or other beneficiary, as set forth in the petition, who has not been cited or has not appeared or waived citation, with proof by affidavit of the mailing of a copy of such notice to each of said beneficiaries.

§ 147. Who may file objections to the probate of an alleged will; jury trial. Any person interested in the event as devisee, legatee or otherwise, in a will or codicil offered for probate; or interested as heir-at-law, next of kin, or otherwise, in any property, any portion of which is disposed of or affected, or any portion of which is attempted to be disposed of or affected, by a will or codicil offered for probate; or is interested as devisee, legatee, executor, testamentary trustee or guardian in any other will or codicil alleged to have been made by the same testator and not duly revoked by him; may file objections to any will or codicil so offered for probate.

Such objections must be filed at or before the close of the testimony taken before the surrogate on behalf of the proponent, or at such subsequent time as the surrogate may direct, and if a jury trial of any issue is desired the same shall be demanded in the objections.

§ 148. Notice to legatees and devisees of objections filed. Whenever objections are filed to the probate of a will, the proponent shall file the notice specified in section one hundred and forty-six and serve the same on each of the parties therein named, and upon any other persons directed by the surrogate to be notified, in such manner and within such time as the surrogate shall direct, which notice shall have the additional statement included in or endorsed thereon that objections have been filed to the probate of such will and that the same will be heard on a day or at a term of court therein stated. Proof of due service of such notice shall be made and filed in the surrogate's office, and any decree in the proceeding shall not affect the right or interest of any such person unless he shall have been so notified.

§ 149. Proceedings upon jury trial of contested probate. Upon the trial before the court and a jury of the objections filed to the probate of a will, or codicil, or either, the verdict of the jury or any order or decision of the judge holding the court shall be entered in the minutes of the court; and if the trial was not held in the surrogate's court, such verdict, order or decision shall be certified by the clerk of the court to the surrogate's court, whereupon the surrogate shall enter a final decree thereon.

Nutritive Value of Tomatoes.

The nutritive value of tomatoes is slight. But because they contain valuable mineral salts and acids, added to their delightful flavor, tomatoes have become very popular as an article of food. Tomatoes are composed of nearly 95 per cent water, leaving very little solid food to contain the elements that give the greatest nutrition, such as proteins, carbohydrates and fats.

MATTERS BEFORE SURROGATE GILL

The will of Frederick Charles Miller of Rifton was filed with Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court today and a citation for its probate was issued returnable November 8. Mr. Miller formerly was a cheese merchant in New York city but retired several years ago and bought property at Rifton, where he made his home. He died several weeks ago. By his will he devises two lots situated in Brooklyn to his daughter, Evelyn. The balance of the estate he gives to his wife Mrs. Lillian M. Miller, but directs that in the event of her death before his own, such balance shall be given to his daughter, Marjorie. Mrs. Miller is appointed executrix. The will was executed August 23, 1917 and witnessed by William C. Fessenden and Newton H. Fessenden. The value of the real estate is $7,000, and the personal property amounts to $15,000. Newton H. Fessenden appeared for the executrix.

WALKER CONSPIRED.

Says Attorney Contesting Searles Will.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Salem, Mass., Oct. 13.—That Arthur T. Walker, who was left $30,000,000 by the late Edward F. Searles, took undue advantage of the aged millionaire alleged mental weakness and conspired to secure the fortune, were charges made by Attorney Sherman L. Whipple today. He was arguing in court in behalf of his client, Albert Victor Searles, nephew of the deceased, who contests the will. Whipple declared Walker exerted a mysterious influence over Searles.

Of Interest to Methodists.

Dr. Baragwanath, of the St. James Church, was in New York on Monday to attend a meeting of the bureau of conference session which was to fix a place for the next session of the New York annual conference. An invitation, signed by all the leading citizens of Cornwall, Protestant and Catholic, was received. After a committee from Cornwall was heard, it was decided to accept the invitation. The meeting will be held in the Cornwall Military Academy, and the members will be lodged and fed in the same building. The conference will be held in April and it is expected that Bishop Luther B. Wilson will preside.

Moving Van Ran Away.

What might have proven a serious accident was averted when a big moving van crashed into a sign alongside the road at the foot of the Sleightsburgh hill about 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. In coming down the hill the van got out of control in some manner and ran away. The hood of the big truck was smashed, but otherwise the car was uninjured. One of the men in the truck leaped out as it shot off the road toward the bill board, but the other man remained at the wheel. Neither was injured.

Ball Helped Ass'n. Fund.

The annual ball of the Christoforo Colombo Benevolent Association, held Tuesday evening at Knights of Columbus Hall, Broadway, was largely attended and dancing to the strains of Curtis Shurter's orchestra was enjoyed until after midnight. The association fund netted a goodly sum and all had a most enjoyable time.

Candidates' Records Tomorrow.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 13.—The "wet" and "dry" records of Governor James M. Cox and Senator Warren G. Harding, the presidential candidates, will be paralleled and be made public tomorrow by the Anti-Saloon League of America. Wayne B. Wheeler, attorney for the league, announced today.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 13.—The stock market showed a steady tone in the early dealings today, chiefly consisting of the operations of the room traders. Some of them again turned their attention to Reading, putting it up one point to 89 while others were disposed to sell the steel stocks. Steel Common yielded ¾ to 86⅝, and Baldwin Locomotive dropped ⅝ to 111⅜. Foreign selling of Royal Dutch continued and that stock declined ⅜ to 75⅝. Anaconda yielded 1⅜ to 51 and then advanced to 51⅜.

Coca Cola sold off ¾ to 28⅝. Studebaker on small dealings yielded ¾ to 51⅝. Mexican Petroleum was well taken and sold up 1 point to 188. United Fruit jumped 4 points to 206. Central Leather was again in supply, falling nearly 1 point to 39¼.

After a show of strength in the early forenoon the market turned reactionary again on the announcement of an 8 per cent call money rate. Baldwin Locomotive, after advancing to 113½, reacted one point. Steel Common held within 86¾ and 87⅛. Mexican Petroleum rose 2½ to 189½ and then lost most of this gain. Royal Dutch sold up to 78, but had a quick reaction to 76¾. United Fruit rose to 207½, a gain of 5½ points. Marine Common fell over 1 point to 18, while the Preferred yielded over 2 points to 70⅞. The copper issues were under pressure, Anaconda falling 1 point to 50⅞ and Inspiration selling off to 42¾.

The market closed steady; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.

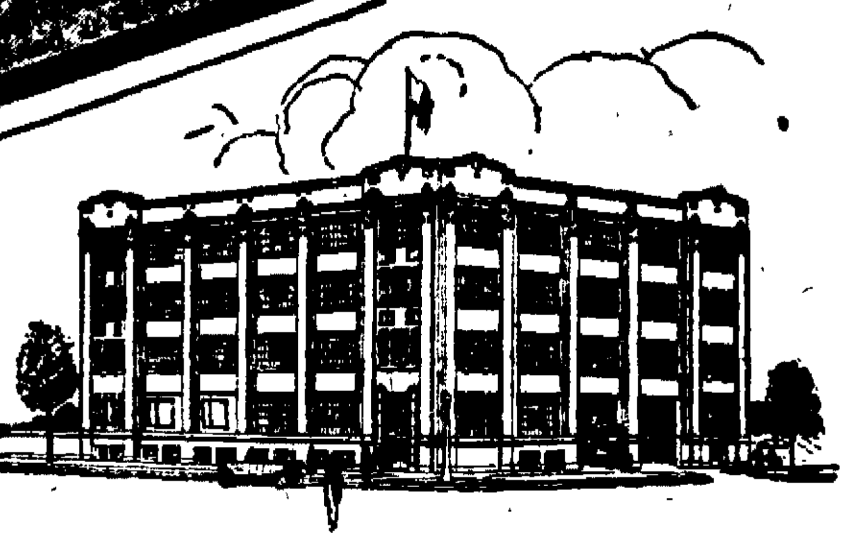
NOTICE

Regarding Mr. Hoffman's services. Up to the time of his recent connection with the Troco Company, Mr. Hoffman's advice and counsel was greatly in demand by Agricultural Colleges, Dairy Schools and Associations, Educational Organizations, Woman's Clubs, etc. We wish him to continue this good work and his services will still be available for this purpose, with the hearty co-operation of this company.



"I have spent 30 years learning how to make Troco"

A. E. Hoffman, who now supervises every detail of the production of Troco, has been over 30 years in the butter business.

He has made butter. He has judged butter. He has taught butter making in the leading dairy schools. He is in demand wherever butter associations meet.

He knows how to handle milk, how to make the finest lactic culture. (On this culture depends sweetness and delicacy of flavor of both Troco and fine butter.)

As Troco is churned like butter, with only dainty coconut fat used instead of butter fat, this skill and experience are essential in perfecting Troco.

We have built a new plant

To give Mr. Hoffman every facility in his exacting work, we have built a splendid new white tile and concrete plant. It is equipped with a complete laboratory and provided with every mechanical facility. It was designed solely for the making of de luxe margarin.

Working in this ideal environment, every pound of Troco is of fancy grade. It is the de luxe brand of nut margarin.

Tested ingredients

Every ounce of coconut fat used in making Troco must pass an exacting laboratory test for freshness and purity.

Every quart of milk comes from selected herds and is twice pasteurized.

These appetizing materials are the most nutritious of natural foods. Whole races thrive on coconuts. Milk possesses all health essentials.

You may pay a little more

We couldn't achieve and maintain this wonderful quality if we had to cut prices to meet competition. So we make this announcement to Troco users:

Troco may cost a few cents more per pound. This you will gladly pay, just as the finest grade of butter commands a premium.

Ask your dealer for Troco. Have him order it for you if necessary—but don't accept another brand.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

CONSUELO, THE GYPSY SINGER

By GEORGE SAND

Condensation by Irving Bacheller

Louise-Aurore Dupin, as she was born in Berry in 1804, was the great-great-granddaughter of the famous Marshal Saxe. She had in her veins the blood of peasant and aristocrat, which brought to her that understanding of both which played so great a part in her future books.

Married to a Monsieur Dudevant, who had no understanding of her intensely romantic and imaginative temperament, she early separated from him, and in 1831 made her way to Paris to make a living for herself and her two children in whatever humble way she could. Fortunately for the world and for herself all failed till she discovered that she could write. She quickly made her pseudonym of George Sand famous. There followed a life of prodigious industry with the pen. The French edition of her works contains 107 volumes. She died in 1876.

George Sand was a most extraordinary human being. Possessed of a great fund of common sense, she had the heart of a gamin. She introduced the French peasant to literature with a rare understanding, yet she was famous in Paris for her adventure with Alfred de Musset, her cigars and her masculine attire. She was the high priestess of the great romantic movement, yet she has painted the simple life of rural France as no other writer has done.

"Indiana," "Lelia," "Consuelo," "La Mare au Diable," "La Petite Fadette," "Francois le Champi," "Le Marquis de Villemer" are but a few of the books of a woman of genius.

ANZOLETO was a street gamin of Venice. He had learned how to sing in Professor Porpora's school. He was handsome. He had imagination which colored his fine voice when he sang. Consuelo, a scrawny, dark-skinned Spanish peasant girl, was another of Porpora's pupils. She was plain, but had a beautiful voice and spirit.

She and Anzoleto were good friends, nothing more, but he—an errant philanderer—was always falling in love and coming to Consuelo for sympathy and advice. He was a rascal and an ingrate.

Consuelo made her first public appearance in the simple dress of a peasant girl, and her voice—filled with the fire of her soul—took the city. Everyone was at her feet. Young suitors sought her hand and among them was Anzoleto. It was the romantic period in Venetian history, about 1650. Consuelo engaged herself to her fellow-pupil, but repulsed the others. Her genius had won admiration; her dignity and modesty had won respect.

The Count Justinian not only engaged her for his theatre, but fell in love with her and tried to win her from Anzoleto. She would not be led away and made it a part of her contract that her betrothed should also be engaged to sing. Her sweetness and fidelity the more deeply enslaved the count.

Consuelo's rival, a singer named Corilla, was bitterly incensed by the action of the count. Anzoleto played on her jealousy and pretended to be her lover. Of this perfidy Consuelo knew nothing.

At the first public performance Consuelo achieved renewed success, but Anzoleto was almost overlooked.

Her teacher warned her not to marry Anzoleto and to prove his case forced her to visit the home of Corilla. They found Anzoleto there and Consuelo was convinced of his perfidy. She repulsed Anzoleto, refused the love of the count and fled to Vienna on the advice of Porpora.

A little later, Porpora sent her to his friend, Count Christian of Bohemia, to serve as companion to his niece, the Baroness Amelia, just come from a convent school at Prague. Consuelo, who arrived at the castle on a stormy night, was in awe of the count and his surroundings, but Amelia, a lovely girl, reassured her and won her instant affection. That night, as Consuelo came, an ancient tree on the estate, known as the tree of misfortune, fell in the storm.

News of its fall threw the count's household into confusion and terror. "Some evil is abroad," the countess said, and soon after Count Albert, the son, entered, a handsome, pale and sad young man, who announced that a strange peace was about to settle over the house. He smiled at Consuelo, touched her hand and withdrew, leaving her deeply mystified.

Albert, she soon learned, was a gentle and admirable soul, but a man of morbid moods which were in effect trances and was only mildly interested in Amelia, who was intended to be his wife.

Amelia told Consuelo that Albert was not only a mystic, but a seer as well as a scholar and that she found him attractive.

Consuelo, on the contrary, was charmed with Albert, who seemed much troubled by her presence. He accepted her as the consolation promised by an inner voice. Her singing called him from his trances, transported and strengthened him. She became his physician as well as his confessor.

She found herself surrounded by mysteries. Secret doors, inexplicable flames, gliding phantoms stirred her curiosity and allured her to exploration. Once when Albert had been missing for a time they led her to a well. She descended it and found a secret passage. This she traversed and beyond it found her lover deranged and ill, in the care of an imbecile servant. She nursed him back to health.

Consuelo's exposure and excitement in this midnight expedition produced a violent fever and Albert's love and care deepened. For a time it seemed as though he might win her hand, but between these devoted young people the dissolute Anzoleto thrust himself.

Although at first she gave way before him, Consuelo regained her self-control and put him aside. The good Count Christian, finding her nobly frank about her early life, not only expressed his admiration, but requested her to marry his son, whose reason she had restored.

To this she answered, "The honor is very great, but I am a singer. I must return to my art."

To avoid Anzoleto she fled by night toward Vienna in order to rejoin Porpora, her teacher. Consuelo reached there only to find old Porpora a master without a school or a pupil.

In her attempts to secure a position at the Court theater she failed by reason of the opposition of the Empress Maria and the enmity of Corilla, her bitter rival. The corruption, the savage hatreds which marked the atmosphere of the court and the theater, led her to dream of Albert and the marriage he had offered.

At last she wrote to Albert, expressing her love for him.

Porpora, to whom she gave her letter to post, burned it and wrote one of his own to Count Christian. He was jealous of her art and desired to profit by it.

Six weeks passed. Consuelo heard nothing from Albert, and as a sudden chance to sing in opera came to her, she accepted it. Her goodness and generosity had won even Corilla, who yielded her part to her.

One day, while rehearsing for Zenobia, her first great part, Consuelo thought she saw Count Albert in the dark spaces of the theater, a silent, flitting, mysterious figure.

At about this time, Baron Trenck, the notorious pandour and freebooter, coming to the city chanced to see Consuelo, and instantly fell in love with her, as did all men. She was terrified by his fierce manner and his disfigured countenance.

One night he forced his way into her dressing room, and pleaded for her love. He cast magnificent jewels at her feet and then in a transport of fury, seized her in his arms as if to carry her away.

A disguised, powerful man darted through the door, seized the bandit and threw him down the iron stairway.

Although her rescuer's face was covered, Consuelo believed him to be Count Albert. She called, she ran toward him, but he was gone. As she stood looking down the dark stairway the prompter announced the second act of the play and she went on the stage as Zenobia, adding to her triumphs. She sang now for Albert, believing that he was somewhere in the audience.

Her conviction was confirmed when amid the flowers which fell around her, flung by the empress and the people of the court, she picked up a small sprig of cypress, which was to her a sign of grief and despair. It was like a symbol of death.

In the midst of her uncertainty a letter came from the director of the Royal theater in Leipsic, offering her a fine engagement. An agent brought the papers with him. Consuelo desired to leave Vienna, for the empress was determined that she should marry one of her favorites.

As Porpora had destroyed her letter to Count Albert, so now he pretended to have had a reply in which Count Albert renounced all claim upon her.

With unshaken faith in her old teacher, Consuelo sorrowfully accepted the new engagement, signed the contract and started for Germania.

It happened that the king of Prussia, Frederick the Great, traveling incognito, met her and was so pleased with her that he gave orders for her entertainment in his capital, but commanded that Porpora should be sent back to Vienna.

All these plans, however, failed, for Baron Rudolstadt, uncle of Count Albert, brought word that the young man was dying and greatly longed to see Consuelo before he passed away. Without a moment's hesitation she hastened to the castle.

Filled with exalted love and pity, Consuelo kissed the dying man, realizing that he was even then hardly more than a spirit. He desired her to marry him, in order that his fortune and his title might pass to her, and so firm and insistent was his demand that Consuelo consented.

Count Albert lived only a few hours after the ceremony; leaving Consuelo sorrowful, but after all, at peace. Then she turned her face toward the fortune of her art.

Children Aid War Orphans.

Children in the public schools are said to be more responsive than any other single class in the country to the appeals which are being made for the relief of orphans in the war stricken countries of the old world. In one little town where Miss Katherine Reynolds McCormick, lecturer in the interest of War Relief, had told the school children of the faithful spirit of the orphans of Armenia the youngsters voluntarily undertook a campaign of their own which in two days added $300 to the fund.

DUCHESS DE CHAULNES & DUKE DE CREUSOT

The Duchess de Chaulnes, daughter of the late Theodore P. Shonts, of New York, according to cable dispatches from Paris, is engaged to marry the young Duke De Creusol, a nephew by her previous marriage. The young Duke is a member of one of the most famous families of the French nobility. Duchess De Chaulnes's first husband died. Duke de Creusol was nursed by the Duchess at Chautau Dompairre when he was wounded in the war. It was then he fell in love, according to his friends. He gained much publicity last year when he came to this country on the same vessel with Gaby Deslys, giving rise to the rumor that he was in love with the famous dancer.

Inspector John Sterling of the United States customs searching squad, with some of the $80,000 worth of morphine seized in the firemens forecastle of the steamship West Cressy, an American vessel which recently arrived in New York from Rotterdam. The morphine was packed in cigarette boxes. A quantity of liquor and jewelry was also found.

When the sun shadows are gathering
And weary eyelids have gone
In your heart a voice comes a speaking
It says only remember me dear.
Our hearts are sad and lonely
Our grief too deep to tell
But time will come we care not when
That we meet with you dwell

INDUSTRIAL BASKETBALL

Y. M. C. A. Forming League Composed of Teams From City's Factories—Will Start in November.

At a recent meeting of the physical committee at the Y. M. C. A. it was decided that one of the events to be promoted during the coming season would be a basket ball league for the teams representing the various industrial concerns of the city. A number of the heads of some of the concerns have been approached in regard to the feasibility of the plans and are of the opinion that such a fixture would go a long way in promoting inter-factory athletic competitions in Kingston. Secretary S. D. M. Hudson of the Chamber of Commerce has given the league an indorsement to the factories.

All games in the league will be played on the Y. M. C. A. gym floor on Thursday evenings. The league will start sometime in November and will continue throughout the season. The members of a team must be actual employes of the factory which they represent, although they need not be members of the association. However, a large number of the players in the league will be members of the Y. M. C. A. and experienced players. The factories that have already signified their intention of playing in the league are the Fuller shirt factory, Palen's Sons, the Barth Company, the United States Lace Mills and the Universal Road Machinery Company. Undoubtedly such firms as the Herberts, the Apollo Magneto, Columbia Shirt Company, Fessenden Shirt Company and others could organize teams that would make a basket ball league a fast and furious affair. This is the first time that an Industrial Basket Ball League has been tried in Kingston and the physical committee feels that it is an experiment that will prove successful.

As there is only a short time until the basket ball season starts it will be advisable for any firm that expects to organize a team to do so soon and get in touch with Mr. Dillinger, the physical director of the Y, so that a place may be reserved for them in the league.

COVELESKIE HERO OF BIG SERIES

But Cleveland Deserved Victory Anyway as Man For Man Its Players Showed Up Better Than Dodgers.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 13.—The best team won the world's championship of 1920.

This statement is often made and nearly as often disputed. It is seldom that the experts agree on what the losing team might have accomplished with better breaks in the luck. This is one of those times, however. The critics unanimously unite in declaring that the Brooklyn Dodgers could not have won under any circumstances. They were up against class and it turned the scales after the third game.

The weakness of the Brooklyn team was never bared so shamelessly to the world as when the Cleveland team exposed them in the world's series. Man for man, position for position, the Dodgers did not measure up to their adversaries, with the possible exception of Ivy Olson, who outshone Joe Sewell.

They depended upon the quantity of their good pitchers. Cleveland won with quality. Only one man can pitch at a time and the Indians had a man who could kill off a couple of the Brooklyn boxmen anytime he started. Stanley Coveleskie now takes his stand with Mathewson, Adams, Dineen, Coombs, Faber and Wood, pitchers who wrenched off three victories in previous world's championships. He is really one of five immortals, for Wood and Faber were not started three times, but merely finished their three games.

One has to go back to Matty's performance of 1905 against the Athletics to find a parallel to Coveleskie as a shut out performer. Matty blanked the Mack men three times and Coveleskie practically did the same to the Dodgers.

The Dodgers have no alibi. Their defeat yesterday was summed up in a few words uttered by Ed Konetchy:

"We were fighting to make runs without as many men on bases as the Indians had," said Koney, "and that simply meant that we were not hitting like they did."

Rube Marquard is through as a Dodger. That was one of the aftermaths of the series, thanks to the Rube's "error" in trying to scalp tickets.

SPECIAL DANCES AT CHARITY BALL

The charity ball dance at the armory for the dependent children of Ulster county is on Friday evening, and a splendid advance sale of tickets promises a brilliant attendance.

Many inquiries regarding the formality or informality of the occasion prompts the statement here that there are no restrictions on the dancers in the matter of costume except that ladies are not expected to wear hats on the dance floor.

The program of the special entertainment which precedes the general dancing will begin promptly at 9 o'clock and will last a half hour. The numbers, which will be most attractive and no doubt prove a drawing card, are as follows:

1. Cupid's Dance by Anna Louise Schmidt.
2. Bonnie Dundee, a Scotch dance, by Miss Erna Schmidt.
3. Polish Mazurka, a duet dance, by the Misses Cashin.
4. French Baby, by Anna Louise Schmidt.
5. Greek Interpretive Dance, entitled "Night," by Miss Schmidt.
6. Dardenella, by Miss Delta Boice.

A few additional names of patrons to be added to the long list already published are: Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Cranston, Mr. and Mrs. William Ten Broeck, Rose, Gorman & Rose, Miss Sarah Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Rodie, Mrs. Burton Davis, G. Burton Tebow.

CARPENTIER WON BUT IS LACKING

Frenchman Duo For Walloping If He Meets Dempsey, Is Opinion of Experts Who Saw Him Lick "Has Been" Levinsky.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 13.—Georges Carpentier's victory over Battling Levinsky entitles him to a match with Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight championship, but it also gave proof that the French champion will get the drubbing of his life when he faces the American heavy, in the opinion of ringsiders who last night witnessed the sorry defeat of Levinsky, when he was knocked out in the fourth round of a scheduled twelve round encounter.

Levinsky, fat and slow, was not the Levinsky of old. The stinging left jab, with which he has held some great fighters at bay, was useless against Carpentier, because it was not used.

Carpentier hit Levinsky practically at will. One smash on the chin in the second round apparently took what fight he had right out of him and from then on, it was only a question of time when the Frenchman would bring him down.

The Frenchman can punch. There is no doubt of that but his vaunted boxing skill was not in evidence against Levinsky. His judgment of distance was poor and his foot work at times clumsy. If he is fast he had it well covered up.

Carpentier's weight was reported from the ring as 170½, but he looked bigger. If he is matched with Dempsey he probably will enter the ring weighing about 180 pounds, as against about 185 for the world's champion.

INDUSTRIAL BASKETBALL

Y. M. C. A. Forming League Composed of Teams From City's Factories—Will Start in November.

At a recent meeting of the physical committee at the Y. M. C A it was decided that one of the events to be promoted during the coming season would be a basket ball league for the teams representing the various industrial concerns of the city. A number of the heads of some of the concerns have been approached in regard to the feasibility of the plans and are of the opinion that such a fixture would go a long way in promoting inter-factory athletic competitions in Kingston. Secretary S D M Hudson of the Chamber of Commerce has given the league an indorsement to the factories

All games in the league will be played on the Y M C A gym floor on Thursday evenings. The league will start sometime in November and will continue throughout the season The members of a team must be actual employes of the factory which they represent, although they need not be members of the association However, a large number of the players in the league will be members of the Y. M. C. A and experienced players The factories that have already signified their intention of playing in the league are the Fuller shirt factory, Palen's Sons, the Barth Company, the United States Lace Mills and the Universal Road Machinery Company. Undoubtedly such firms as the Herberts, the Apollo Magneto, Columbia Shirt Company, Fessenden Shirt Company and others could organize teams that would make a basket ball league a fast and furious affair. This is the first time that an Industrial Basket Ball League has been tried in Kingston and the physical committee feels that it is an experiment that will prove successful.

As there is only a short time until the basket ball season starts it will be advisable for any firm that expects to organize a team to do so soon and get in touch with Mr Dillinger, the physical director of the Y, so that a place may be reserved for them in the league.

COVELESKIE HERO OF BIG SERIES

But Cleveland Deserved Victory Anyway as Man For Man Its Players Showed Up Better Than Dodgers.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 13.—The best team won the world's championship of 1920.

This statement is often made and nearly as often disputed. It is seldom that the experts agree on what the losing team might have accomplished with better breaks in the luck This is one of those times, however The critics unanimously unite in declaring that the Brooklyn Dodgers could not have won under any circumstances. They were up against class and it turned the scales after the third game.

The weakness of the Brooklyn team was never bared so shamelessly to the world as when the Cleveland team exposed them in the world's series Man for man, position for position, the Dodgers did not measure up to their adversaries, with the possible exception of Ivy Olson, who outshone Joe Sewell.

They depended upon the quantity of their good pitchers Cleveland won with quality. Only one man can pitch at a time and the Indians had a man who could kill off a couple of the Brooklyn boxmen anytime he started Stanley Coveleskie now takes his stand with Mathewson, Adams, Dineen, Coombs, Faber and Wood, pitchers who wrenched off three victories in previous world's championships He is really one of five immortals, for Wood and Faber were not started three times, but merely finished their three games

One has to go back to Matty's performance of 1905 against the Athletics to find a parallel to Coveleskie as a shut out performer Matty blanked the Mack men three times and Coveleskie practically did the same to the Dodgers
